Adlai Opens Gate For Nomination

Would Do Utmost To Win

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Adlai E. Stevenson all but announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today by promising an all-out election campaign if chosen for a third try for the White House.

The 1952 and 1956 Democratic nominee let it be announced in this convention city by one of his key backers, Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson of California, that he would "of course" accept a draft.

TALKS IN CHICAGO

Shortly afterward, Stevenson said in Chicago that he would do his utmost to win the election if nominated.

Stevenson's statement came as Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson arrived in Los Angeles, touching off the first band-blaring hoopla of the convention. The Texas senator's chief presidential rivals get in tomorrow.

Johnson, in a brief airport speech, decried what he called publicity claims that Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) already has 690, 700 or 710 convention votes.

'IMPORTANT THING'

"It doesn't matter how many razzle-dazzle predictions you have," he said. "The only important thing is who ought to be the next president."

Shortly before Johnson's plane landed, a union source said labor's "big three" privately are supporting Kennedy, the front-running Democrat, because they consider Johnson too conservative on domestic issues.

The "big three" are AFL-CIO president George Meany, Auto Workers president Walter Reuther and Steelworkers president David J. McDonald.

DIFFICULT CIRCUMSTANCES

Stevenson recalled in his statement that he headed the Democratic ticket in two campaigns against President Eisenhower "under circumstances which were understandably difficult."

"I have, therefore, felt that it would be presumptuous and arrogant for me to claim squatter's rights or to seek actively a third nomination," he said.

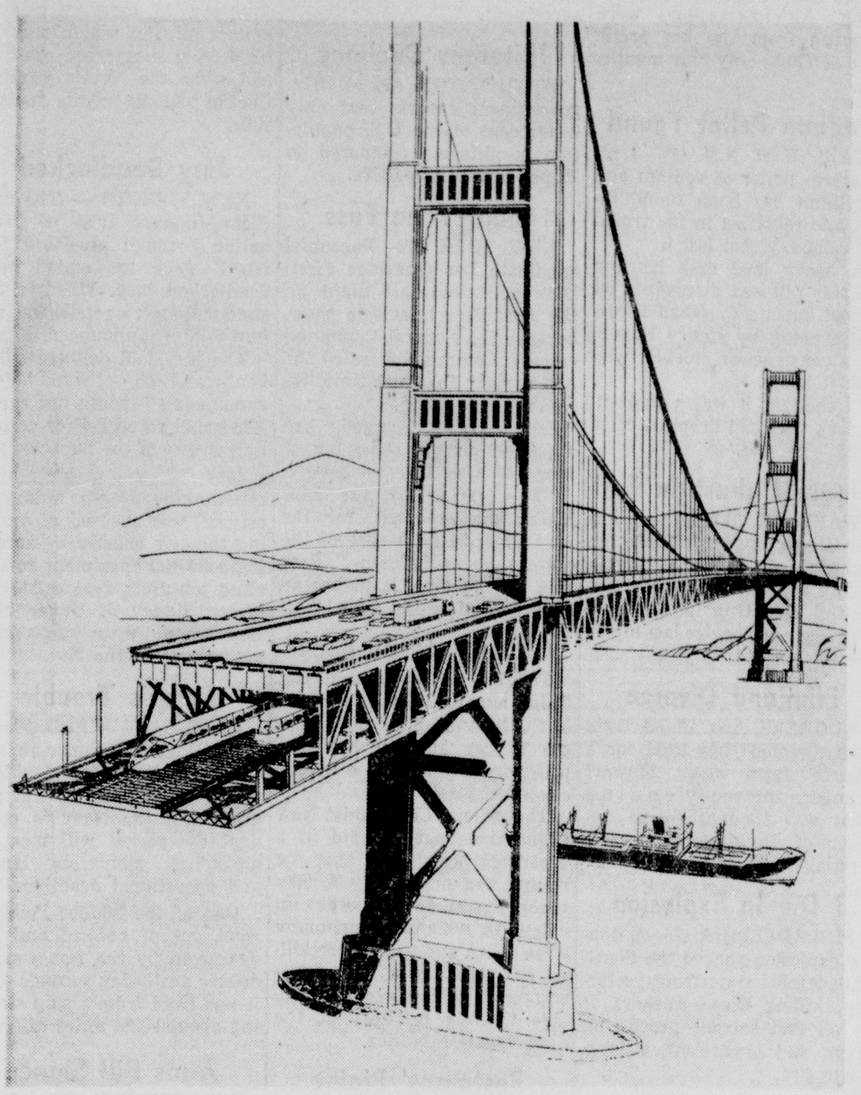
"However, if selected by the convention, I will, of course, accept the draft and campaign with vigor and a sense of real purpose since the issues we face are of such great importance," he declared.

UPHILL FIGHT

Unlike the 1952 and 1956 conventions, Stevenson faced a tough uphill fight. Unofficial delegate tabulations showed him running fourth behind Kennedy, Johnson and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri. His only hope appeared to be a convention deadlock.

Amid the jockeying, the Kennedy forces continued their drive for an early ballot victory. They claimed they are assured of California Gov. Edmund G. Brown's support and hoped to enlist Govs. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa and George Docking of Kansas.

They also had the formal support of Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.), son of the four-time Democratic president.



GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE OF FUTURE?

This drawing shows a cutaway section of the Golden Gate Bridge as it would be if rapid transit rails were placed on a deck underneath the motor vehicle deck of the Marin-San Francisco span. The drawing was made in connection with a study of rapid transit on the bridge by R. B. Steinman of New York, internationally known suspension bridge engineer, for the San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District. Steinman believes the plan is feasible.

Whites Flee As Disorder Grips Congo

U. S. Embassy Surrounded By Soldier Mobs

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (UPI)—Terrorized Europeans, their panic fed by stories of rape and shootings in the interior, fled the Congo by boat, automobile, air and on foot today.

But by nightfall, the Congolese government was reported gradually bringing disorders sparked by mutinous Congolese native soldiers under control and quiet was reported returning to Leopoldville, capital of the old Belgian Congo. However, the exodus of whites continued.

DENY REPORTS

Republic of Congo officials were reported denying that the regime of Premier Patrice Lumumba had been toppled or that the situation was out of control.

An estimated 3,000 white men, women and children fled across the wide Congo River from Leopoldville to Brazzaville.

But their fear apparently was greater than their danger. So far as could be determined, no one was hurt in the mad flight.

Communications between Leopoldville and the rest of the world was cut for several hours, but was later restored. Belgian government sources in Brussels said after contact was resumed that the Congolese government was in command of things.

CURFEW ORDERED

They said Congo President Joseph Kasa Vubu had been proclaimed commander in chief of the army, with military patrols carrying out orders and a curfew ordered.

Congolese patrols were reported arresting their white European officers — some of whom had changed into civilian clothes—and were taking them to the military garrison of Camp Leopold.

CIRCLED BY MOB

In Washington, U.S. officials said the U.S. Embassy in Leopoldville is surrounded by a mob including many Negro soldiers who no longer have white officers. The mob also has cut off the road from Leopoldville to the airport, presumably to prevent white persons from getting away.

The officials said that members of the embassy, including Ambassador-designate Clare Timberlake, cannot get out of the embassy. They added that the State Department is now relying on reports from the U.S. consulate general in Brazzaville.

Woman Given Marin Tax Appraiser Job

Marin County acquired a second state inheritance tax appraiser today.

State Controller Alan Cranston announced appointment of Mrs. Elaine Barrett Guthrie of Ross to the appraiser's position vacated by the controller's removal of William Nock of San Rafael a year ago.

She is the 10th woman named to the appraisership by Cranston.

Mrs. Guthrie joins Lee V. Holman of San Rafael on the Marin County appraisal panel. She has served as assistant inheritance appraiser under Holman since his appointment on July 22, 1959.

Her appointment was endorsed by a number of prominent Marin County residents, including Walter Castro, chairman of the board of supervisors, and attorney Joseph

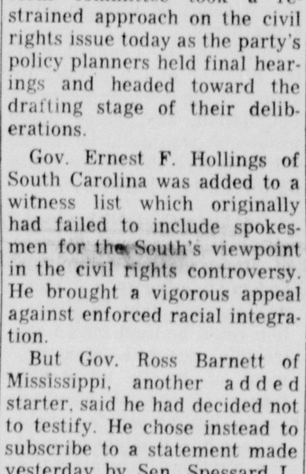
HST Changes Mind, Will Attend Parley

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman has reconsidered and will arrive for the Democratic National Convention sometime Monday, Missouri Gov. James T. Blair announced today.

Truman will attend as a delegate, Blair told a news conference in a prepared statement which also forecast the nomination of Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) for president.

Truman had announced last week he was resigning as a delegate and would not attend the convention because, as he put it, it was "pre-arranged" for one candidate — Sen. John F. Kennedy.



PAUL LUJAN
Death after breakfast

Inmate Dies In Knifing At Quentin

A San Quentin prisoner was stabbed to death minutes after he left breakfast in the prison's south dining room this morning.

Prison officials nabbed one suspect immediately, questioned him for hours, then seized another, who, they said, admitted the killing.

Paul Lujan, 23, serving time for assault with a deadly weapon in Los Angeles County, was stabbed repeatedly in the chest, with one thrust penetrating the heart. He was dead when he reached the prison hospital.

ADMITS ASSAULT

Alvin Vernon Marshall, 25, sentenced for first degree robbery and assault with a deadly weapon in Los Angeles County, reportedly admitted the assault.

Prison officials and Asst. Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety spent hours questioning another Los Angeles County convict before turning to Marshall. The first suspect, said Associate Warden Dale Frady, was standing close by where Lujan collapsed in the prison yard, and had a slight cut.

A sharpened screwdriver lay on the ground. This was at first believed to be the murder weapon, but Frady said later investigation indicated the killer may have used another knife.

CHANGES CLOTHES

Marshall was among the knot of prisoners standing outside the dining room at 7:50 a.m. when Lujan fell. But, said Frady, he went to his cell and changed clothes, concealing evidence that might link him to the killing.

When questioned later, however, he reportedly admitted the attack and said he had killed Lujan over a gambling debt.

Garety and prison officials were still questioning Marshall this afternoon.

ENTERED IN 1956

Marshall entered San Quentin Oct. 11, 1956, on a five year-to-life sentence. Lujan entered the following May 29, sentenced to six months to life. No parole date had been set for either man.

Frady said that, as far as known, no long-standing feud between the two existed.

Lujan's killing came little more than two hours before a scheduled death in the prison —that of Richard Thomas Cooper, who paid with his life in the gas chamber for the murder of two San Francisco women.

Dixie Demos Hold Off On Rights Issue

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Southerners on the Democratic platform committee took a restrained approach on the civil rights issue today as the party's policy planners held final hearings and headed toward the drafting stage of their deliberations.

Gov. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina was added to a witness list which originally had failed to include spokesmen for the South's viewpoint in the civil rights controversy. He brought a vigorous appeal against enforced racial integration.

But Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi, another added starter, said he had decided not to testify. He chose instead to subscribe to a statement made yesterday by Sen. Spessard L. Holland of Florida on behalf of the committee's southern bloc.

The southerners also changed their minds about filing a special statement with the committee in reply to a barrage of testimony yesterday calling for strong action to guarantee Negro voting rights, school desegregation and equal employment opportunities.

A statement was prepared and signed by the southerners, but Sen. John Stennis (Mississippi) said they decided after all to rest on Holland's plea yesterday for "moderation" and his warning that an extreme stand on civil rights would drive southern voters away from the party.

Slayer Gets His Wish, Dies In Gas Chamber

Richard Thomas Cooper, who asked for death, got it today in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber.

He also got the big last breakfast that he requested, and a dinner last night cooked to his instructions (he was a former fry cook).

But there was one thing the prison couldn't give the condemned man: a San Francisco Giants' baseball victory.

After the Giants dropped another game to Los Angeles yesterday, Cooper spent most of the night talking about the team and complaining about its management — past and present, reported Associate Warden Dale B. Frady.

This morning, he ate a big breakfast of scrambled eggs, ham, fried potatoes, chilled peaches, orange juice, bread, milk and coffee.

In his final interview with Warden Fred R. Dickson, he said, "If I had my life to live over again, I'd do a lot of things differently."

But he made no complaint at his death sentence. He had once asked his execution date to be moved ahead, in fear the California Legislature might abolish capital punishment before he was gassed.

At 10 o'clock, he entered the "little green room." At 10:03½, the cyanide was release. At 10:12, Cooper was pronounced dead.

The 33-year-old ex-cook, ex-cabbie and ex-chauffeur died for the strangulation slayings of two San Francisco women.

In May of last year, he walked into a San Francisco police station to say he had strangled Erleen Mosley, 37, to death in a skid row hotel. And the previous year, he mentioned, he had also strangled to death Elvira May, 47.

The latter confession freed from prison John Henry Fry, 53, serving in San Quentin after pleading guilty to the slaying of Mrs. May, his common-law wife. Fry had pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the slaying, on advice of a San Francisco public defender that he could not beat a murder charge. He said he was too drunk to know what happened on the night Mrs. May was slain.

15-Day Truce Proposed In Riot-Torn Italy

ROME (UPI) — The Communist-controlled Italian General Federation of Labor today accepted "in principle" a government-supported proposal for a 15-day truce in street riots and strikes that have brought Italy dangerously close to revolution.

ROME (AP)—Senate President Cesare Merzagora appealed today for a 15-day truce in political rioting and strikes. He said the future of Italy was endangered, and his proposal won some early support.

Earlier the government had threatened tougher police action unless the Communists halt the wave of violence which has cost seven lives and injuries to 750.

TRUCE SUPPORTED

Giovanni Leone, president of the Chamber of Deputies, announced his support of the truce, and similar indications of approval came from parties of the center and right, and non-Communist unions.

The pro-Communist Socialist party of Pietro Nenni approved the truce, "provided the government afterward does not revert to the same police tactics."

GRAVE SITUATION

There was no word from the Communists, or the Red-dominated Confederation of Labor.

Merzagora said he was motivated by "the gravity of the situation and the realization that the most sacred values of the constitution had been compromised, and the future of the country endangered."

DOG SNATCHED CUPBOARD BARE; HOUSEWIFE COLLECTS IN COURT

A Tiburon housewife, who battled a neighbor dog over a chunk of sirloin tip roast and lost the tug-of-war last April, won a $11.30 judgment today in small claims court from the dog's owner.

Mrs. Ellen Shadrick of M-65, Hilarita Housing Project, told Judge Leonard A. Thomas she was thawing the roast on her kitchen table last April 7. Her little daughter left the door open. A German shepherd-boxer dog, owned by neighbor Jerry Kalfoes of S-98, Hilarita Housing, stalked into the kitchen and grabbed the roast.

Mrs. Shadrick said she dashed after the dog, cornered him in his dog house, and retrieved what was left of the roast. She put the meat on the table and went to the phone to report the incident to police.

Mrs. Shadrick's daughter, who had been watching the battle with interest, toddled back into the kitchen, leaving the door open again. Back came the dog for the meat.

"By that time, the dog had most of it already anyway," Mrs. Shadrick sighed. "I decided to let him have it all."

She then filed a claim for $6.50. Court costs added another $4.50, and Kalfoes had to pay $11.30.

NEW LIGHT—Dr. Theodore H. Maiman of Hughes Research Laboratories studies device that provides the first true "Laser," its heart is a synthetic ruby crystal (in front of tube) which absorbs random light rays. Its tightly packed atoms then helps the crystal amplify parallel beams of light. (AP Wirephoto)

Light Device Broadens Scentific Frontiers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Scientists today dismissed the idea that development of a means to amplify light could be used soon as a death ray, but they hailed it as an important scientific breakthrough.

Achievement of the amplification of light, long sought by scientists throughout the world, was announced here yesterday by scientists of the Hughes Aircraft Co., Culver City.

Physicist William Culver, of the RAND Corp., Santa Monica, said the creation of an intense, narrow beam of light "could develop into the ability to communicate over great distances with small amounts of power."

He said it also might help increase the accuracy of measurements of positions and velocities of objects in space, such as satellites.

The Hughes scientists, headed by Dr. Theodore H. Maiman, said a beam of light generated by the new device could vaporize anything it was focused on when amplified enough. On the surface, this suggests the device could be used to build a death ray.

However, Dr. Leonard Reiffel, director of the physics division of the Armour Research Foundation, said many many problems would have to be solved before the device could be turned to a lethal use.

Dr. Alvin G. McNish, physicist at the National Bureau of Standards in Washington and an authority on electronics, said light amplification could be used for an extremely accurate measurement of length up to distances of several hundred yards. But he said he could not see how it might be used for anything resembling a death ray.

The small test device demonstrated by Maiman yesterday is called a Laser, whose letters stand for "light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation."

The laboratory model resembles a water glass with perpendicular sides. In its core is a ruby crystal, and leading to the crystal is a spiraled glass tube that is heated electrically to the frequency of light.

The crystal absorbs electro-magnetic energy of light over a broad band, and its atoms are roused from their "resting state." The "excited" atoms then release their energy in a band of radiation much narrower than the light radiation which excited them.

The Laser emits a narrow beam of light whose sides are almost parallel.

Among the possibilities opened up by its development Maiman listed:

Static-free, jam-proof and "spy-proof" radio communications over vast distances, even to the moon, planets and man-made satellites.

Increasing radio and TV channels without limit.

Astronomical research, because the Laser could detect the light of stars too faint to be picked up by any devices that now exist.

Nikita Hints Soviets May Sign E. Germany Peace Pact In Fall

VIENNA (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev hinted today that the Soviet Union may sign a peace treaty with Communist East Germany in September.

"I will tell you a secret" Khrushchev told correspondents in Vienna.

"We have information from West Germany that the West German Federal Parliament may meet in West Berlin in September. This is another provocation.

CONSIDERS TALKS

"We will consider with our friends Otto Grotewohl and Walter Ulbricht whether it would be possible to sign at this time a peace treaty with the German Democratic Republic (East Germany)."

"This," he continued, "would mean that all members of the West German Parliament would have to ask a visa from the East German government in order to return to West Germany."

Earlier, Khrushchev had emphatically declared that he considers West Berlin to be on the soil of East Germany.

BLASTS ADENAUER

Khrushchev compared Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to Hitler again, and said the West German leader would be smashed "if he attempted to touch" any country in the Communist bloc.

Khrushchev blasted Adenauer in answer to a question at a news conference in the closing hours of his nine-day state visit to Austria. He apologized to Chancellor Julius Raab for making such remarks on Austrian soil but said it was his "duty not to evade any question."

The United States, West Germany and Italy all have protested to Raab against Khrushchev's attacks on them during his visit.

One correspondent asked the Premier: What is "your message" to the Democratic party convention which opens in Los Angeles next week?

Khrushchev replied that he did not think the Democrats wanted any message from him.

"It would be tactless if we, in this great moment, would take any initiative," he added.

"It also would be an interference in the internal affairs of the United States. We have great respect for the people of the United States and we believe the people do not need our message, especially at this time when they are getting ready for their presidential elections."

No Dearth Of Sugar Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans will have no trouble getting plenty of sugar despite the government's sharp cut in imports from Cuba, the main foreign supplier.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson told a news conference yesterday that the slap at Fidel Castro's anti-American regime probably would have no noticeable effect on sugar supplies or prices in this country.

TAKE UP SLACK

Robert H. Shields, president of the U.S. Beet Sugar Assn., said the United States could take up the slack by buying sugar from 11 foreign countries with available supplies.

He said these nations have on hand 2,288,000 tons of sugar, including more than 1,100,000 tons in raw form. U.S. producers have no excess sugar beyond their assigned quotas.

President Eisenhower used new power granted by Congress to slash 700,000 tons from Cuba's quota to sell sugar in this country for the rest of 1960. The action also would bar Cuba from supplying part of the Hawaiian and Puerto Rican sugar quota deficits, amounting to an additional 156,000 tons.

PRIVATE IMPORTS

An Agriculture Department official said the Cuban sugar probably would be replaced through private imports by U.S. refineries rather than by direct government purchases.

Americans consumed 9,200,000 tons of sugar last year. Under the sugar act, the government set this year's supply quota at 9,400,000 tons, divided about equally between U.S. and foreign producers.

About one-third of the overseas quota originally was assigned to Cuba—3,119,655 tons. All but 739,752 tons of this already has been shipped from Cuba or has been certified for entry.

Manufacturer Testing Link To Earhart

TETERBORO, N.J. (UPI) — A generator discovered at the bottom of Saipan Bay would be difficult to identify as the one used in the airplane in which aviatrix Amelia Earhart disappeared 23 years ago, according to the Bendix Corp., which manufactured the generator.

Clark Smith, a company spokesman, said yesterday Bendix is trying to determine if the machinery found last week was the one used in the craft.

The generator was identified by pilot Paul Mantz, Santa Ana, Calif., air service operator who equipped Miss Earhart's plane for an around-the-world flight. He said the generator was identical to one he ordered for the missing aircraft in 1936 before Miss Earhart took off with her navigator Fred Noonan.

Traffic Pattern Fund Earmarked

A sum "between $35,000 and $40,000 has been appropriated by the Mill Valley City Council to be used to start work on new traffic circulation pattern at the intersection of Miller Avenue and Camino Alto.

City Engineer Stanley M. Bala was directed to prepare a gasoline tax project based on the plan, which he presented.

City Manager A. E. Almcrants said Bala's plan won tentative approved of the Tamalpais Union High School District board this week.

AWAITING A-BLAST

Religious Sect Dunned For Food Debt

BENSON, Ariz. (UPI)—There's a little matter of an $11,704 food bill to be taken care of tomorrow when some 100 members of a religious sect climb out of their bomb shelters.

The bill was incurred by members of the Full Gospel Assembly who stocked shelters and their cellars with loads of food and went underground Monday night prepared to survive a nuclear holocaust they believe will occur by tomorrow.

So far their underground existence has brought them nothing but a steady stream of annoyances, the latest occurring yesterday when law officers served notice of a writ of attachment.

A Tucson grocery firm signed a complaint seeking the writ, and Cochise County Attorney Lloyd Helm and Sheriff Charlie Steart served the papers.

They had to bang on plumbing pipes, and shout before they could arouse several members of the sect from their basement shelter.

William Scott, one of the sect members served with the papers, said, "Every debt we have we will cover. We've got the money, but we haven't been able to get to the bank since it closed on the Fourth of July."

The members have 20 days to answer the writ.

Belief that Russia would launch an all-out nuclear attack on the U.S. this week was divinely inspired, the members have said. However, if the attack does not take place, they plan to leave their shelters tomorrow.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER—George Goodfellow, president of the Marin County Labor Council, presents the council's four-year, $500-per-year scholarship award to Gretchen Glazier, a 1960 San Rafael High School graduate. Terra Linda Girl, 16, Gets Labor Scholarship

A 16-year-old San Rafael High School graduate yesterday was awarded the four-year, $500-per-year scholarship of the Marin County Labor Council.

The winner is Gretchen Glazier of 650 Wakerobin Lane, Terra Linda, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. K. M. Glazier. She was chosen from a field of 50 Marin applicants.

Gretchen was graduated last month from high school and in the fall will enter Stanford University, where she plans to major in creative writing.

The Labor Council award is made to encourage high school students to become familiar with the role of labor in society and to assist a student in continuing education.

Gretchen also placed seventh in a field of 550 applicants in a state-wide competition of the AFL-CIO. Scholarships in that competition are awarded only to the first six, however.

In the Marin County competition, Norman Hansen of 15 Hansen Avenue, Novato, Novato High School graduate, placed second, and Arthur J. Quinn of 2 East Street, San Rafael, a Marin Catholic graduate, placed third.

Gretchen was assistant editor of the Red 'n' White at San Rafael High, a life member of the California Scholarship Federation, a member of Les Couts and the orchestra.

She won first prize in the state in the senior high division of the Chaparral poetry contest, placed third in the county in an essay contest on "Jobs for the Handicapped," and won the San Rafael High award as the outstanding Senior English student.

Her father is director of Presbyterian mission schools in British Guiana.

Physician Says Man Found In Tub Has Diabetes

Anselmo DeCosta, 73, found Monday by San Anselmo police after he lay helpless for four days in his bathtub, was too weak to move because he was in an advanced condition of diabetes, his physician reported yesterday.

"He had not had a physical examination for some time" said Dr. Alfred J. Schwarz, "and unknowingly was in prediabetic condition. You might say it just caught up with him and was overwhelming."

The doctor said DeCosta was in good condition at San Rafael General Hospital and only suffered pressure sores from his ordeal.

DeCosta was found in his home at 15 Lincoln Avenue in San Anselmo after police were called by his son-in-law, who was worried because DeCosta had not answered the telephone for four days.

DeCosta is a blacksmith for the Marin Municipal Water District.

Politico Says Mexico Backs Cuba Regime

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A congressional spokesman for Mexico's ruling political party says the nation is solidly backing the Cuban people against the United States. Senators and deputies gave him rousing cheers.

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos was silent on the statement made by Emilio Sanchez Piedras, chairman of the permanent commission of Congress.

Sources close to the president said they felt the statement represented the view of a spokesman for the legislative branch and not the executive, which is responsible for Mexico's foreign policy under the constitution. But his speech was billed as an explanation of the basic policies of Lopez Mateos' government, and it seemed most unlikely he would have spoken without consulting top government officials.

Sanchez Piedras told a congressional caucus, "It appears that our northern neighbor (the United States) is closing the doors of its friendship and understanding in the face of the yearnings of the Cuban people to live in liberty and economic independence."

"We, the representatives of the people of Mexico, repeat to the Cuban people our same attitude of solidarity," he continued.

REFINERY TAKEOVERS

Castro Rejects U.S. Protest On Seizures

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government last night rejected the U.S. protest against seizure of American and British oil refineries in Cuba and charged the foreign oil companies were trying to "return Cuba to colonial dependence on foreign economic interests."

Foreign Minister Raul Roa accused the United States of being "false hypocritical and malevolent" in saying the refineries were taken over illegally last week.

Roa also rejected a British protest against the seizure, but only the note to U.S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal was made public.

Bonsal and British Ambassador Stanley Fordham protested Tuesday against the seizure of the American-owned Esso and Texaco refineries and the British-Dutch Shell plant.

All three refineries had refused to process Soviet crude oil acquired by Cuba under its sugar-for-oil barter agreement with Moscow. The companies said they could not desert their traditional sources of supply in Venezuela.

The Foreign Ministry accused the two American companies of "the crime of economic boycott" against the Cuban people, of trying to paralyze Cuba's oil supplies and of "undertaking measures constituting the international crime of economic aggression."

Wilson Heads Marin Drive For Matzen

Joseph G. Wilson, San Rafael attorney who lost the Democratic nomination for Assembly to Everett A. Matzen in the June 7 primary, will head Matzen's campaign for election in Marin County.

Wilson accepted the chairmanship at a meeting of Democratic and labor union leaders in Santa Rosa at which plans for the drive to elect Matzen, Petaluma city councilman and labor union business agent, were mapped.

At the Santa Rosa meeting, Rep. Clement W. Miller stressed the need to get all voters registered for the Nov. 8 election. Mrs. Muriel Apenzeller was named to head a drive for Democratic registration in Marin.

The name of Florida is from the Spanish "feast of flowers."

Appeal Made For Return Of Letter With Work Card

A plea was made today for the return of a letter addressed to a German social security office in West Berlin by a Russian couple who had hoped it would bring a pension to 65-year-old Jacob Tkatschenko of 58 Belle Avenue, Fairfax.

The letter was lost Monday night by Mrs. Tkatschenko in the course of a Greyhound bus trip from Fairfax to Tiburon. The letter, addressed and stamped, was in a paper bag filled with green apples. It contained Tkatschenko's German work record. The couple was uprooted from their native town in Russia's Caucausus region in 1943, and lived in Poland and the American zone of Germany before immigrating to the United States.

Mrs. Tkatschenko had the letter in the paper bag of apples when she boarded a Greyhound bus in Fairfax at 6:50 p.m. Monday.

She changed buses in San Anselmo and Marin City before arriving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Wineman at 65 Spring Lane, Tiburon, where she is housekeeper. It was then that she missed the paper bag.

Seeding Forests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Aerial seeding of new forests is increasing by leaps and bounds nationally, but the greatest use of this new technique is being made on forest industry lands in the Pacific Northwest.

Some 32,906 acres of industry tree farms and other private forest lands were aerially seeded in that section of the country last year, according to the Department of Agriculture. This was 63 per cent of the 51,848-acre total for the nation as a whole.

Cities, County List Major Arterials

A list of streets in Marin's cities which are deemed to have arterial county significance was agreed on today as first step toward a proposed new deal in highway maintenance.

Top officials of seven of the county's 10 cities met at the county planning offices with County Administrator D. A. Jensen and Public Works Director Marvin W. Brigham and achieved unexpectedly close and quick harmony on a long-standing problem.

Today they bit off only what they agreed they could chew in about two weeks, when another meeting will be held. The bite comprised the agreed list, purposely deprived of priority at this time.

After mileage of the list is figured, the second meeting will be held. Then priorities and financing will be discussed.

Reallocation of gasoline tax money appeared the most likely means of county participation in the cities' road costs.

Setting a $100,000 outside limit per year, Brigham said he could see point to giving this much "if it were just these roads of county interest, not all mixed in with city requests."

"This group feels that a bond issue would be best," Jensen summed up long financial discussion, "but it's almost impossible to pass a bond issue."

The arterial road list was made up by nominations in turn by representatives of the seven cities represented, plus Novato, which Brigham said he represented in effect, and with a guess at what San Anselmo should have. Belvedere was omitted as not concerned.

The list went:

ROSS — Sir Francis Drake Boulevard within city limits.

SAUSALITO — Bridgeway (which, it was suggested, "could run to a million with seawall.")

SAN RAFAEL — San Pedro Road to China Camp; Second Street from Highway 101 to Fourth Street; from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Red Hill Avenue in San Anselmo to Irwin Street via Miracle Mile, and Second on First Streets; D Street from Second to Sir Francis Drake.

SAN ANSELMO—Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and or Center Boulevard to Fairfax.

FAIRFAX — Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Bolinas Avenue.

MILL VALLEY — Loop from Highway 101 to 101 via Camino Alto; Montford, Molino and Edgewood Avenues to Panoramic Highway.

CORTE MADERA—Improvements through Larkspur to Tamalpais Drive in Corte Madera; Corte Madera Avenue grade south to Mill Valley; Tamalpais Drive from 101 to Corte Madera Avenue; Paradise Drive five miles east from 101.

LARKSPUR—Route connecting Kentfield and Larkspur via College Avenue; William Avenue between Magnolia Avenue and 101.

WIDE HUNT

Lost Boy Discovered In Toy Box

Mill Valley police searched for three hours yesterday afternoon for 3-year-old Andrew Fuchs, after his mother, Mrs. Kathleen Fuchs, reported he had vanished from home at 81 Hillside Avenue.

The whole neighborhood was alerted to join in the search.

Then somebody raised the lid of a toy box on the front porch of the Fuchs home.

Inside was Andrew.

He closed the lid, he told his mother, "so I wouldn't get cold."

Veterans Group Supports Juvenile Hall Fund Use

At least one Marin veterans' organization is willing to have county veterans' memorial funds transferred to enlarge the county's juvenile hall.

Muir Woods Post 6741 of Veterans of Foreign Wars last night voted approval of the transfer, which has been proposed by the county board of supervisors and opposed by one veterans' group after another.

Supervisor William D. Fusselman appeared at the post's meeting to stress the urgency of expanding juvenile hall.

Mrs. Spivey and the couple's son will accompany him to Hawaii.

Board To Make Rails Decision

Marin County supervisors will decide Tuesday whether their theme song for Sausalito's fight to keep railroad freight service is "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby."

The issue will be pitched back to the board by County Counsel Leland H. Jordan. He was requested to rule on county ability or obligation to contribute to Sausalito shippers' fight against plans of Northwestern Pacific Railroad to abandon its Sausalito line.

Jordan's answer: It's strictly a policy decision. The board may contribute county cash if it so wishes.

Pair Admits Breaking Into Eight Homes

Two men from Castro Valley have admitted breaking into eight homes in Stinson Beach and Bolinas during the past month, Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos announced today.

Sheriff's Inspectors Carl Sears and Richard Argento and Deputy William Bradford identified the men as Joseph Eugene Cimonetti, about 29, and Philip Walter Larabee, in his early 20's. They are brothers-in-law, who work as warehousemen.

The inspectors went to their home in Castro Valley yesterday, and found a truckload of stolen items, including television sets and firearms.

The two had been taking the stolen goods to auction yards for sale, Inspector Sears reported.

Cimonetti and Larabee were arrested two days ago in Lakeport as suspects in burglaries committed there. They were caught because Cimonetti got careless with a .32-caliber revolver taken in one of the thefts and shot himself in the hand, according to Inspector Sears. Cimonetti went to a hospital, and officials called the Alameda County sheriff's office. Investigators noted that his home was full of extra household belongings.

Police in both Lakeport and San Mateo County want the two men for questioning in connection with burglaries.

Utah Girl Reigns As Miss U.S.A.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A raven-haired beauty reigns as Miss U.S.A. and matches her perfect figure and charm against 42 girls from all over the world tonight in semi-finals for the Miss Universe title.

Linda Bement, an 18-year-old Mormon girl from Salt Lake City, Utah last night won out over 42 American contenders for Miss U.S.A.

"She has been grooming herself since she was 13," beamed her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bement.

"I wanted to make my parents proud," countered Linda. "They were the instigators of this."

Just a month out of high school and an only child, Linda was one of the youngest girls competing. But her poise, her gorgeous face and figure captured the fancy of the judges as it did a crowd of 6,000 spectators in Miami Beach Convention Hall.

The crowd gave her the biggest applause of any of the 15 semi-finalists — and again of the five finalists as the field was narrowed.

New York's entry, Mary Rodites of Port Jefferson, was named first runnerup.

Behind her came, in order, Margaret Jo Gordon of Birmingham, Ala.; Lyndia Ann Tarlton of Wingate, N.C.; and Nancy Wakefield of Winter Haven, Fla.

Club members will finish up work on sets for "The Taming of The Shrew," which is to open at 8:30 p.m., July 15. Refreshments will be served.

IKE PLAYING GOLF

Eisenhowers Start Vacation At Newport

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Eisenhower, happy as a hookey-playing schoolboy, looked forward today to his second round of vacation golf.

The president and his wife arrived in this New England resort area from Washington late yesterday afternoon. They hope to stay a month.

They had vacationed here in 1957-58, so they are anything but newcomers. The reception they received left no doubt about that.

When they got to Ft. Adams, the naval base summer White House, the president and his lady linked arms and walked in the late afternoon sunlight across a spacious lawn to the summer White House on the shore of Narragansett Bay.

Ahead of them was a 19th Century frame residence, cream-colored and trimmed in white, where they had enjoyed an Indian summer two years ago.

Thirty minutes after arriving, the President was off to the Newport Country Club where from 4:45 p.m. until dusk he played 18 holes of golf.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower landed at Quonset Point, R. I., and got an enthusiastic welcome from a crowd of about 5,000.

WONDERFULLY FUNNY

Newcomer Outshines 'Anything Goes' Cast

By DOROTHY SLATTERY

When "Anything Goes" opened last Friday at Sausalito's Gate Playhouse, a newcomer in a character role pranced away with the plaudits with the deftness of a pickpocket on a crowded bus.

Gordon Wood bowing for the first time on the Sausalito boards snatched the show from the stars as soon as he boomed on stage wearing a roman collar and carrying a submachine gun.

Wood is a wonderfully funny man who has a sense of humor and extraordinary sense of timing. His lively stepping and hand to mouth perplexity kept the show on its feet.

Wood portrayed a Damon Runyan type hood, Mr. Moon (a real diamond in the rough) to perfection. Pursued by the law and branded "Public Enemy No. 13" and in the company of Bonnie, Public Enemy No. One's moll, he takes refuge aboard an England bound ocean liner.

The story revolves around the classic plot of the Twenties when gangsters, night club entertainers, Wall Street brokers, millionaires and their daughters ran rampant through fiction mingling, marrying and reforming.

The production retains much of the fun and frivolity of the era when it was cast even though the producers moved the clock up to the present time.

A nightclub entertainer, every inch of the Texas Guinan mold—brash, dynamic and soft hearted, Reno Sweeney, falls for a bright young broker, Billy Crocker, who in turn loves the dewy eyed daughter of a millionaire. The triangle thickens, turning into a rectangle when Hope Harcourt, the young lady in question shows up on the liner with her fiance, a stuffy English tycoon. Reno sets her sites on the English peerage shortly after the ship sails.

The show's score is loaded with some of the best music to pour from the pen of Cole Porter and the sets and costumes colorful and effective.

Reta Bowen turned in a terrific piece of acting as the lusty nightclub chanteuse, Reno Sweeney, but her voice's tonal quality strained in the soprano register. Sal DeValle's, Billy, was a warm personable young man but his singing was sticky and dance routines out of proportion to the size of the stage.

The stage of the Gate Playhouse is small and the size accounts for difficulty in developing good choreography.

Skip Rognlien was a good choice to play the young Oakleigh and a special carnation should be tossed to J. W. Cheetham who turned in three excellent portrayals, Bishop Dobson, the senior Oakleigh and the liner's captain.

Betty Shelton as gravel-mouthed as Bonnie was one of the production's strongest performers.

The touch of director Les Abbott shone through in the large production numbers where the entire ensemble crowded on stage. These moments came electrically alive and the "Blow, Gabriel, Blow" routine was the production's highest and most colorful point.

All the way through the show, one character, one actor, Gordon Wood held the production on his shoulders proving that in the theater, even "Anything Goes" anything can happen.

Curtain times for the production are 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. on Sundays.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Fleur d'Lys In San Anselmo Doing Well With 'Popular' Price Menus

The old saying that "50 million Frenchmen can't be wrong" must have originated with someone who had latched happily on to the fact that certain delightful methods of cooking are among the inalienable rights of the French.

Robert Charles and his staff at the Fleur d'Lys in San Anselmo have undertaken to adapt some of this haut cuisine to what most people are willing to pay for a meal in Marin County. It was a struggle, but I think they've won out.

Dinners at Fleur d'Lys are now within the so-called popular price range on the deluxe level. That's another way of saying that you'll get top grade food and plenty of it, beautifully cooked on the special $3.75 and $4.95 dinners.

The feat was accomplished by limiting choices to a few of the most favored items. The $4.95 champagne complete dinner (champagne cocktail) for instance offers selections of lobster, chicken or beef medallion that even the French wording on the menu fails to do justice. Unless you're inclined to be highly selective there's no need to order a la carte.

To quote another axiom, Fleur d'Lys has "come to the mountain" and deserves a fair trial not based on hearsay. No stuffy showplace, this, but an intimate little cocktail lounge and dinery conducted with a flair of casual refinement.

Personality award for the week goes to Fleur d'Lys busboy Dick Brown of Novato who's the fastest thing I've seen without wheels. He may not be a French import but he's built on a Citroen chassis that can travel.

SMORGASBORD: Max Horowitz of the Ranch Wagon is now a Marinite in the true sense. Moving from San Francisco over to San Rafael has made it official. His new chef, by the way, is Harvey Berriman . . . Banquet room at Novato's Cloud 5 is in the last stages of completion—should be open to the public around July 15 if there are no hitches . . . More people are asking for Mitchell Javeaux's lobster thermidor at Le Chateau than ever ordered it before . . . New pianist at Joe's in San Rafael is Barbara Ott from San Francisco—she's well liked. Here, too, has come Al Bernardini, singing bartender who used to be with Hector when he operated Rubini's in Fairfax.

IF I WERE ASKED to tell in 25 words or less "why I like Rubini's . . ." I know I'd never get past the soup and salad. In fact that allotment is already used up and I haven't even started.

Words are a poor substitute for the real thing and I don't know anyone who can sit down with knife, fork and the Reader's Digest and satisfy his hunger.

As an appetizer, however, you might take a quick look with me into Rubini's kitchen which is quite a good size one and on a Saturday night is as turbulent as the forthcoming Democratic convention will be between nominating speeches.

Busiest man on the floor is chef Gordon Jones who has to recognize motions from the dining room in their proper order and make sure that the gentleman from Mississippi doesn't get the tenderloin tips meant for the delegate from the state of Massachusetts and is ready to fight for it. In between he has to check on the immediate supply of whatever happens to be the best seller of the evening—in this case it seems to be filet steaks—broil four of them with one hand and dress a pair of lamb chops with the other, at the same time he chops up some mushrooms. (Good gosh, he must have three hands!)

While this is going on, waiters and busboys are dashing in and out of double doors (fortunately they're set up for one-way traffic), assistants are variously engaged with salads, desdirty dishes, and someine is calling out instructions in that argot known only to denizens of the kitchen.

Back in the dining room, the fruits from this melee are served without a hint of the commotion beyond. It is quiet and peaceful and the babble of relaxed conversation is a backdrop for gracious eating.

It's a good thing I only have to write about it.

If my job was on the other side of those doors you'd go hungry.

Rafael Theater Bills 'Portrait In Black'

By LES DARD

Here are some tips on what films are playing in Marin.

RAFAEL THEATER

"Portrait in Black" (color), starring Lana Turner and Anthony Quinn, is a drama of illicit passions heighted by murder. It opens Sunday on the San Rafael screen.

Miss Turner appears as the wife of ailing shipping tycoon (Lloyd Nolan). Quinn, her lover, is also Nolan's doctor. And even though Nolan is dying, the couple decides to speed his demise.

Suspicions are thrown this way and that after the terrible deed is done. Sandra Dee, as Miss Turner's stepdaughter, and John Saxon (Miss Dee's boyfriend) cast some especially inquiring glances when Nolan is removed.

The story is set in San Francisco (some of it was filmed there), and the cast includes Anna May Wong, Richard Basehart, Virginia Grey and Ray Walston.

TAMALPAIS THEATER

Darryl F. Zanuck is the sponsor of "Crack in the Mirror" (CinemaScope), (opening Sunday at the San Anselmo screen) in which the same players play corresponding roles in a pair of triangles. And before long, the triangles collide—as the result of a particularly brutal killing.

Orson Welles plays an old man, the victim of the murder, and also the lawyer in the murder trial. Brad Dillman portrays a frightened youngster trapped by a siren and also a grasping young legal eagle. Juliette Greco is cast as a slum slattern and a sleek worldling—the girl in both messy affairs.

It makes for quite a bit of cinematic hocus-pocus, and it has been photographed against Parisian backgrounds.

Estimate: Six-sided triangle.

NOVATO THEATER

"Kidnapped" (color), the latest product of the Disney studios, is based on the Robert Louis Stevenson adventure classic about the orphan boy cheated out of his inheritance by a miserly uncle. (It opens Sunday).

James MacArthur stars as the lad kidnaped at the uncle's behest, to be shipped into slavery. Peter Finch plays his friend, and together they join in wild battles with the ship's wicked captain as well as skirmishes in Scotland.

It all ends happily, as you might expect.

MOTOR MOVIES

The latest Alec Guinness film is a farce titled "Our Man in Havana."

This Cinema-Scope yarn offers Alec as the seedy owner of a vacuum cleaner shop in Havana. He's in need of money.

Then along comes British spymaster Noel Coward and Alec is sucked into setting up a spy network.

Topping the supporting cast are Ernie Kovacs, Burl Ives and Maureen O'Hara.

There's plenty of satire in this tale, many laughs.

LARK THEATER

"Black Orpheus" (color) winner of the Oscar as best foreign film of the year has been held over at the Larkspur theater.

Made in Brazil, it tells how handsome Orpheus (Breno Mello) meets his Eurydice (Marpessa Dawn), a new girl in town, and wafted into love beyond earthly control.

She has come to Rio for the Festival, and is pursued by a strange admirer garbed as Death. Instead of following her to Hades, Orpheus tries to save her during a nightmare chase through the maddened carnival throngs.

The result is unusual.

SEQUOIA THEATER

The youngsters' demand for films like the recent Hercules movies is being met by "Hannibal," starring Victor Mature (in Technicolor). It opens Sunday on the Mill Valley screen.

Mature, in eyepatch and huge helmet, is shown leading the men of Carthage and his elephant army to Rome after crossing the Alps.

Rita Gam, a Roman beauty, portrays his beloved.

There are a sufficient number of massive battle scenes for the young viewers.

MARIN THEATER

James Thurber's famous story, "The Catbird Seat," has been turned into a whimsical comedy called "The Battle of the Sexes." It stars Peter Sellers as the head clerk in a sleepy Scottish tweed firm who does battle with a beautiful U. S. efficiency expert (Constance Cummings).

Cause of the battle: Her sweeping demands that the office be cleared of the old fossils who've been running it successfully for years, the installation of electronic gadgets in place of dusty ledgers.

Seller's desperation brings brings him to the verge of murder — but he finds a less bloody and much funnier solution.

The cast includes Robert Morley as an oafish heir who is swayed by the overbearing Miss Cummings.

Estimate: A funny one, which opens Sunday on the Sausalito screen.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE AND FAIRFAX THEATER

"Journey to the Center of the Earth" (color, CinemaScope) is a tongue-in-cheek spoof of the Jules Verne story which will please the youngsters and their parents.

James Mason portrays a scientist whose protege is Pat Boone, no less. Along with beauteous Arlene Dahl, they head for a crater which leads to the center of the earth.

Along the way, they encounter many striking scenes and dangerous forms of subterranean life. Enough to make a 12-part cliff-hanger.

The playhouse also is showing the Oscar winning short, "The Golden Fish."

ONE WAY TO START A DUCK DINNER

Formosan farmers release a flock of ducks into rice paddy as they let the marshy field do double duty. As the rice grows, the ducks swim, eat minnows and also grow. Both feathered and field crops are then harvested for traditional Chinese dinner. (AP Wirephoto)

Teen-Agers Caught Taking Case Of Beer

Three teen-age boys and a girl picked the wrong time to steal a case of beer off a beer truck in downtown San Rafael yesterday.

It was during the noon hour. Deputy Sheriff John J. Canziani, who works as bailiff in the courthouse all day, was driving back to work after lunch. In the 900 block of B Street, he saw a station wagon with four juveniles stop behind a parked Falstaff beer truck. One youth jumped out of the car, lifted a case off the beer truck, tossed it in the car, and they drove off.

Canziani, in his private car, gave chase and finally pulled the station wagon to the curb at Third and D Street. The officer escorted the four youngsters, aged 14, 15, 15, and 16, to the San Rafael police station, along with the case of beer.

Capt. Joseph J. Brusatori notified the parents and turned the juveniles over to the probation office.

FADS, ROLLER SKATES AND VITALITY

British Magazine Sees California Through Smog-Colored Spectacles

LONDON (AP) — California, said Economist Magazine today, is the state of the future; its only trouble is too much of everything, including Californians.

"Admittedly the state has its poverty and its slums," the Economist said, "but in the main it is with the pressures of prosperity that Californians have to struggle.

"In doing so they are showing the rest of the United States what the future has in store for it."

The Economist gave 18 pages to a review of every side of California life. Here are some of its findings:

Homes: "The people who have flooded into California are rapidly destroying the salubrious climate and the beautiful scenery which brought them there.

"A car for four-fifths of the people of driving age has befogged the once clear sun-filled air. Lovely valleys, hills and seashores are becoming as thickly and unattractively settled as the suburbs of New York or Boston."

People: "Every kind of eccentric fad and odd religious sect flourishes in California, partly because among those who have been drawn to the state is a high proportion of the dissatisfied, the misfits, always on the move mentally and physically.

"Once they have reached California there is no where else to go for most of them, and it is therefore not surprising that suicides and alcoholism are at record levels."

Leisure: "To the detached observer many Californians seem to spend their leisure in most unenjoyable ways — bouncing on mattresses, racing on roller skates or watching people compete in these and other ways.

"To drive 50 miles each way to a cocktail party — often in a Rolls Royce or a foreign sports car — is nothing."

Culture: "In things of the mind California is far less influential than in those of the flesh.

"The man who has driven 50 miles to get home from the office does not want to go out again to a symphony concert. As a result orchestras, even in Los Angeles and San Francisco, are not up to the standard of some in smaller cities in the east."

The cities: "Los Angeles may be an exotic jungle in which new ideas run riot, but it has a vitality which makes San Francisco look set in its ways."

State Engineer Runs Into Roadblock With Shoreline Routing Proposals

The California Division of Highways ran into opposition to a Shoreline Highway route through Tamalpais Valley from a standing-room-only crowd at the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club Hall last night.

C. F. Greene, assistant district engineer of the division of highways in San Francisco, described four alternate routes for the new link of Shoreline to Highway 101. Two of the routes go through Tam Valley.

Members of the crowd made it known they do not want either of the routes through their valley.

President Midge Hamburg asked Greene what the residents can do if the route turns out to be Tam Valley — either going up the floor of the valley or on the eastern hillside. Greene said they might write to J. P. Sinclair district engineer.

D. E. Boothroyd of 634 Northern Avenue asked why the Tam Valley route instead of an outlying route where so many homesites would not be affected? Green said the answer was money. He said it would cost two million dollars more to put in the route through Fort Cronkhite — one of the other alternates.

A route through the floor of Tam Valley would involve 83 homes; that on the Tam Valley hillside, 64; one Tennessee Valley route would involve 37 homes. The fourth, which starts on Waldo Grade and cuts over hills to Tennessee Valley, involves only four homes.

George W. Wheelwright of Green Gulch asked Greene how deep the cut would have to be at the north end of the valley. Greene said it would be 60 feet deep and about 120 feet wide at the base.

Wheelwright said this cut would make a wind funnel which would affect the climate of all Tamalpais Valley.

Greene told the audience that the division of highways wants to please the peoples with highway routing and will do so as far as is practical. But, he said, "when it leaves the realm of practicality, we will have to do the expedient thing."

There will be a formal public hearing on the route Aug. 4 at the Tamalpais Valley School at 2 p.m.

Tuesday from 2 to 9 p.m. at the school, maps of the proposed routes will be on display and two men from the division of highways will be present to answer questions. A map display will also be held in the Stinson Beach community center Thursday from 2 to 9 p.m.

Mill Valley Budget Hearing Slated

The Mill Valley City Council will hold a budget hearing at 8 p.m., Wednesday in the city hall, the second session on the 1960-61 budget which is to be adopted in August.

City Manager A. E. Almcrants said there is no estimated total budget figure yet and "there won't be until we can find out what the assessed valuation is going to be."

He said the council has stated it will try to hold the tax rate to the $2.09 per $100 of assessed valuation which was levied last year.

Election Committee Chairman Rejects New Tenants Ballot

There is no need for a new election of the Marin City Tenants Council, according to Jesse Berry, chairman of the election committee.

Elections for five new officers were held June 30, and five — were elected on a "new deal" ticket. All four incumbents who ran were defeated.

The council officers declared the election null and void, saying the date for submitting nominating petitions had been extended 24 hours illegally.

Berry said today there was nothing illegal about the election. He said that when the committee, consisting of himself, Joseph Bell and Mrs. Lulu Bland picked up the petitions on Sunday, June 26, there were only three. The committee decided "Sunday was the closing date and you don't do legal business on Sunday." So the committee extended the deadline for 24 hours until 6 p.m., Monday.

On Monday, the committee collected 10 petitions including those of all five who won election.

Berry said that the committee had the consent of Council President Frank Phillips to extend the deadline.

Berry said the council officers held a secret meeting since the election and have not yet called for a report from the election committee.

"We have 152 names of residents who voted in the election," Berry said. "No attempt has been made to check their names to see if any irregularity was carried on during the election. Therefore, the committee feels justified in saying their is no need for a new election.

The council directors elected on the new deal ticket are Miles Benjamin, Daniel Hayden, James Quiett, Mrs. Rose Sweeney and Harby Westmore. The defeated incumbents are Phillips, Jack Johnson, Mrs. Doris Rochelle and Woodie White. Mrs. Gene Beard, incumbent, did not run for re-election.

Marinites Get Freedom Awards

Three Marin County residents received 1959 Freedom Foundation awards yesterday at a luncheon in San Francisco.

Robert R. Gros of Belvedere, vice president of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., was presented a $100 award and a George Washington Honor Medal for his public address, "Freedom is Never Free."

Clayre and Michel Lipman of Fairfax were awarded a medal in the radio category for their program, "Point of Law."

Eight other awards also were made to Northern California winners. The awards are given for work in helping to bring a better understanding of the American way of life.

A half-dozen members of the Glenwood Home Owners Assn. met Wednesday but were minus the four officers needed for a quorum, reported President Gerald O. Melbo.

A letter to the San Rafael City Council, previously approved, was sent off asking that the city maintain plantings in a divider strip at the entrance to Glenwood.

Something Must Be Done About Juvenile Hall

Marin officials and other county residents can no longer turn their backs on the deplorable conditions at Juvenile Hall in Lucas Valley.

For months now, the supervisors have been receiving reports telling them that 35 or 40 or 42 boys and girls are being jammed into a structure designed to accommodate 19 or 20. But each report has brimmed with happiness and contentment—everything is hunky-dory.

Young boys and girls taken into county control for their own protection are jammed into the same quarters with the roughest, toughest juvenile delinquents the county has to offer at the moment. It's impossible for children whose father is dead and their mother taken ill so she couldn't care for them to be cared for by themselves. They go right in with the youths accused of attacks, burglary or other crimes. It's a serious situation, but nothing's being done about it.

The county health officer inspected the hall and found it to be unsanitary and substandard on numerous grounds. But her complaints were minimized by the administration, saying that most of the things of which she complained had already been taken care of.

The head of the hall gave an interview to an out-of-county newspaper in which he said there is nothing wrong at Juvenile Hall.

Perhaps he'd better tell the county's juvenile judge. Superior Judge N. Charles Brusatori called Juvenile Hall a "black mark on Marin County." He backed up the charges of the health officer and urged that the "neglected children of neglectful parents" be segregated from "juveniles who have transgressed a little further."

These reports brought a plaint from Supervisor William Fusselman that "people working out there should have reported to the board." We think something more drastic should be done.

We think the supervisors should take off the rose colored glasses and look Marin County's "black mark" right in the face. Better still, they should hire an outside agency to take an impartial look at Juvenile Hall.

Tell the investigators to bring in a factual report, let the chips fall where they may. Ask them what needs to be done to improve the immediate situation and what needs to be done long-range.

The supervisors might even turn over the pretty set of plans for a new Juvenile Hall they've had kicking around for so long and ask the investigators if those plans will provide a proper place for both the county's unfortunate and problem children.

It's high time something was done.

ANOTHER FIREWORKS BAN?

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

ONE THEFT LEADS TO ANOTHER

Little by little, a bank employee stole a third of the deposits. The small bank couldn't stand the $340,000 loss and was forced to close.

The assistant cashier admitted that things got so hopelessly involved during the four-year period of his theft, that he was afraid to mention it to anyone.

"I had a guilty conscience, I was hoping for a miracle," said the man who had completely betrayed the trust placed in him during the 10 years of his employment.

None of us is beyond temptation in one form or another. And we too can become involved "little by little" in wrong doing if we don't resist the beginnings of temptation.

Stand firmly for what is true and good, not merely against dishonesty and evil. In doing this you will experience the joy of living a constructive life that benefits your fellowman as well as yourself.

Don't Laugh At Gout, Some Very Respectable People Have It

NEW YORK (AP) — One out of every 100 Americans has a disease at which many of the other 99 often laugh through sheer ignorance.

This disease is gout, a malady which has had a far more important impact on our country than, say, those twin ailments of the advertising world—halitosis and athlete's foot.

Those who laugh at gout might not be here at all except for the dreaming boldness of a gout sufferer. Between his pangs this man — Christopher Columbus—discovered America.

Those who laugh at gout might not be Americans at all except for two more gout victims.

One was the brilliant English orator, William Pitt. It is said that only an attack of gout prevented him from stopping passage of the Stamp Act, a measure that speeded the American Revolution.

The other was Benjamin Franklin, whose diplomatic genius—despite his throbs of gout—did so much to win American freedom and establish our national unity.

Those who laugh at gout do so in the belief that it is a heaven-sent penalty for high living. The truth is that gout is an inheritable metablic disorder, a form of arthritis that afflicts more suspected sinners than known saints only because at any one time the world usually holds many sinners, few saints.

The long and honorable history of gout is recalled in the current issue of "Geriatrics," by two physicians, L. Maxwell Lockie and Richard G. Cooper, both of Buffalo, N. Y.

Gout, which is manifested by painful deposits in the joints and body cartilage and accompanied by a high uric acid content in the blood, is one of the oldest diseases known to man.

TODAY, SAY Drs. Lockie and Cooper, gout is the one form of arthritis that can be easily managed by medicine and diet.

So if you want to become the first man in your neighborhood with a distinctive disease, never mind bragging about your ulcer. Ulcers are commonplace. Gout is the thing.

GOUT IS becoming fashionable as well as respectable.

The guy with gout may also have genius in his genes; the guy who still laughs at gout proves he is merely an uninformed dumbbell.

You Were Close About Butterflies

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Re: Hordes of Brown Butterflies.

The caterpillars from the butterflies you mentioned in your editorial, normally feed on wild lilac, ceanothus sp., which plants grow abundantly in the hills around Alpine dam, the Meadow Club, etc. They will sometimes feed on horse nettles, manzanita, fruit trees, thistles and other shrubs.

The butterfly is known as Anglais californica (Bvd.) or Vanessa californica and is closely related to the Painted lady, Vanessa cardu (Tenn.), the Painted beauty, Vanessa virginiensis (Drury), the Buckeye, Forquin's admiral, and the Morning Cloak.

Of these, only the last is known to feed on elm, more commonly on willow. All these are part of the family Nymphalidae or Brush-footed butterflies.

Unlike the Morning Cloak, which may survive as an adult for over a year and is known to migrate from Canada to Mexico, this one emerges, as observed in the spring, and survives for only a few weeks.

Normally it does not migrate, but on very warm days, it will seek shade and moisture and may be seen by the thousands resting on damp soil along the edge of streams, lakes, ponds, mud puddles or in gardens that have been recently watered.

The species is of no consequence as a pest to home gardeners.

This species is distributed from the Rocky Mountains to our coast, from Mexico to British Columbia. It is most abundant right here.

This is the California Tortoise Shell butterfly. Your guess was close.

Marinites Helped Foreign Students

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

We should like to take this opportunity to thank all the people who gave of their time and efforts in the planning for the weekend of June 24-26 for the benefit of the American Field Service students.

It was the first time one of the buses taking these students on a three weeks tour of the United States left from San Rafael. Host families housed and entertained 26 students who had spent the school year in an area other than Marin County.

Without these people and those who participated in the actual organizing of this project, the weekend could not have progressed so smoothly.

Johnson Still May Be Open To Veep Job; Kennedy Says He Isn't

WASHINGTON (AP) — Of the Democrats' two leading would-be presidential candidates — Sens. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson—one says he is ready to go for broke. The other isn't.

These two men, Kennedy from Massachusetts and Johnson from Texas are now making an all-out effort to get the presidential nomination at the Democratic convention opening Monday in Los Angeles.

Both have been asked this natural question: Just in case you lose out on the ticket's No. 1 spot, would you accept the vice presidential nomination?

Kennedy says emphatically no. Johnson doesn't say.

WHETHER THIS MEANS Johnson is less confident of winning what he's going after is open to question.

It's hard to see why Johnson would swap his present job as majority leader of the Senate Democrats for the much less active, less powerful and less influential job of vice president.

Johnson astonished no one when he formally announced at a news conference Tuesday that he is a candidate for his party's top nomination. He has been a candidate without saying so, for months.

He was asked the question about accepting the vice presidency not only once but twice.

THE FIRST TIME he said that if he misses out on the presidential nomination, "I am prepared to support anyone who is nominated for president with all the vigor and intelligence at my command."

The second time he said: "I am a candidate for president, and I would never reject something that hasn't been offered me. I would say this: that I have been prepared throughout my adult life to serve my country in any capacity where my country thought my services were essential."

This was a far less direct answer than the one given by Kennedy at a news conference last Jan. 14 when he was asked about settling for the No. 2 spot.

He said: "No, I am not going to accept the vice presidency under any conditions. I will say that anyone who says he is going to run for president and makes a decision even in their own minds that they are going to settle for second prize, then that's what they are going to get."

JOHNSON CONCEDED that Kennedy has more delegates lined up for the convention than he has now, but still said "I expect to be nominated for president."

At the 1956 Democratic convention Johnson got very little consideration for the presidential nomination—no more than 80 votes—but that time he flatly refused to consider second place on the ticket.

Decor Of Artists May Change But Problems Aren't Solved Yet

Materially speaking, artists have come a long way since the dear, dead days of my daubing endeavors.

In place of the large, economy size jugs of red wine with which we used to deck the festive board, today's painters, print-makers and sculptors are putting away Johnny Walker Black Label and Old Crow. With soft, hi-fi background music. And with beautiful, nourishing smorgasbords to match the decor.

I NOTED THESE changes last week while sharing a luncheon with members of the Marin Society of Artists in honor of the awards jury for their art and garden fair exhibit.

I trust my hosts will not think I am knocking the new look. On the contrary, I am all for it and hope it is a permanent part of the cultural scene.

Memories of my salad days in the wonderful world of artists were brought sharply home to me by the presence of Bill Gaw, long-time leading painter on the California scene and one of the guests of honor as member of the awards jury.

ALTHOUGH I HAD never met Bill personally until last week, my indirect association with him dates back roughly 25 years when I held down a part-time job in a small Los Angeles art gallery where he exhibited regularly by invitation.

As "assistant to the director" of the Foundation of Western Art (a title I bestowed on myself for later use on employment application blanks), I answered the telephone, swept the floors, ran errands and replaced blown electric light fuses when the occasion arose.

I also assisted in hanging the monthly exhibits, an exciting chore which enabled me to handle the canvasses of many of the leading lights among the artists—Gaw, Ted Polos, Lucien Labaudt, Raymond Puccinelli, Moya del Pino, Victor Arnautoff and Mini Okubo, to name only a few.

AT THE TIME I was a student at nearby Otis Art Institute where I swept floors for my tuition and typed menus for a neighborhood restaurant for my breakfasts.

My lunches, as I recall, were usually supplied by the daughter of a Hollywood character actor, one of the more affluent students sent to the school to absorb a bit of culture in passing. Each day at noon I would ply her with sweet nothings while she plied me with such goodies as turkey sandwiches and ripe olives the size of small apples.

Most of us, however, were a dedicated band of zealots who had our sights set on the fame of at least Modigliani, if not Picasso or Cezanne.

OUR EVENINGS were spent in endless discussion, sharpened by enormous quantities of cut-rate wine and staged in an atmosphere of candles set in bottles, dripping wax and casting grotesque shadows on the unfinished attic rafters—the only type of home we could afford, or would be willing to be found dead in.

We lived, breathed and ate paint and, in our night-long forums, managed to settle all the problems of the arts, the sciences and the universe.

Because of these memories, I was more than a little surprised last week to overhear snatches of the same discussions, easily recognizable despite the change in scenery.

I could have sworn that 25 years ago we hadn't left a single problem unsolved.

Nixon Needs To Clarify His Position On Economic Issues

WASHINGTON—Vice President Richard Nixon is seriously blurring his position by appearing to take both sides of one of the crucial issues of the campaign: how urgent is it that we increase the rate of economic growth and how best to do it?

In his first major discussion of this subject, Nixon left us with more questions than answers.

NIXON VIEW — He says that the critics of our rate of economic growth are heading toward a "government-regulated economy" and tax rates "which will make the manufacture of new cars academic."

Those who believe that economic growth can be stimulated by governmental action favor using more of our resources for public purposes. But Nixon confuses the issue by warning simultaneously against public spending and against timidity in public spending. His repeated admonitions against a higher federal budget are numerous and strong, but in his latest speech he also said:

"If we are to grow at a maximum rate, we must recognize the continuing need for investment in the public sector." He named education, roads, urban renewal, natural resources, research and scientific development, adding:

"Timidity in these areas would be as detrimental to the national interest as timidity in private investment."

QUESTION—Does Mr. Nixon contend that the taxes necessary to sustain this kind of "investment in the public sector" would make "the manufacture of new cars academic?"

NIXON VIEW—The Vice President warns that we must not over-estimate Communist achievements. "The critics of our present economic policies," he states, "say that the Soviets are achieving their objective of overtaking us."

Nixon points to our impressive lead in consumer goods and suggests pretty conclusively that the Soviets are not likely to overtake us in consumer goods in this century.

QUESTION — But doesn't this answer miss the central problem? Since the Soviets can use any part of—indeed do use the major part of — their production for national purposes, for carrying out the Soviet economic challenge around the world, doesn't the strength of the U. S. in this economic contest-for-keeps depend in large part on how much of our economic resources we use for national or public purposes?

In testimony before Congress Allen W. Dulles, Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, put it this way: "The uses to which economic resources are directed largely determine the measure of national power."

Therefore, the prospect that the Soviets will not catch up with us in production in the next 40 years does not mean that their economic challenge cannot be equal to ours, even now, since they will be using more of their less abundant resources for that purpose.

Both the friends and critics of Nixon will hope that he returns to this subject soon.

Culinary Workers Receive Pay Hike

Marin County's bar and restaurant employees got a 5 per cent wage boost, with another 5 per cent increase scheduled for next July 1 under terms of a master contract ratified yesterday.

The contract was ratified yesterday by the Bartenders and Culinary Workers Union, Local 126, and the Marin County Restaurant and Tavern Owners Assn.

The owner's association, with 26 restaurants as members, employs more than half of some 1,000 members in the Marin County local. Other employers are expected to sign contracts patterned after the one ratified yesterday, said Richard Gladstein, attorney for the local.

No increase in restaurant prices is necessary because of wage boosts, said F. J. Masberg, president of the owners' association.

"There was a concensus last night that we would be able to hold the line," Masberg said.

He said employers were aided by new provisions in the labor contract allowing them to employ bartenders for a four-hour shift before 6 p.m. at $11.90; cocktail waitresses for a six-hour shift, and dishwashers, bus boys and bar boys for four-hour shifts at 65 per cent of the full shift wage.

The three-year contract calls for negotiations to be reopened July 1, 1962. The first 5 per cent increase is effective as of last Friday.

A pension plan will begin July 1, 1962, with an employer contribution of 25 cents per employee per shift.

If the local's health and welfare plan during the forthcoming year shows more money going out than coming in, the present employer contribution of 53 cents per employee per shift will be increased to 63 cents on July 1, 1961.

Dishwashers, porters, janitors and vegetable men received pay increases in excess of the general 5 per cent boost.

Hostesses, cashiers and cocktail waitresses who wear their own clothes on duty will receive a small daily allowance for cleaning under the new contract.

Novato Chamber Issue Booklet On Recreation

A complete listing of recreational opportunities in the Novato area has been issued by the city's chamber of commerce.

The 12-page booklet will be available at the chamber office on Grant Avenue. It lists baseball leagues for youngsters, bowling facilities, camping, picnicking and swimming sites, church youth groups, scout troops, fishing spots, riding stables, folk dancing groups and other leisure activities.

The booklet is an answer to the many questions asked of the chamber on recreation facilities, chamber manager Robert Merritt explained. The information was compiled by Mrs. Tony Quintana and Mrs. George Pelmear, members of the North Marin Council of Parents and Teachers.

Rocky Urges Underground Bomb Tests

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller wants the United States to resume underground nuclear testing as a step toward armament control.

"The primary necessity for any successful negotiation of arms control is the correction of today's military unbalance in order to make the deterrent force of America truly secure against destruction," the Republican governor says.

Rockefeller's latest call for a change in administration policy on arms control was made in a 4,000-word statement

Rockefeller has been urging Vice President Richard M. Nixon to discuss issues, and Nixon says he has done plenty.

Although Nixon is the favorite to win the Republican nomination for president, Rockefeller remains available for a draft.

In his statement, Rockefeller urged that the United States create immediately at the highest level of government "a fully staffed agency to inspire and to coordinate all activities bearing upon arms control and inspection."

PREPAREDNESS MOVE

Science Group Urges Disarm Organization

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federation of American Scientists urged the administration today to set up promptly a U.S. government planning organization on disarmament.

It blamed the June 27 breakdown of the 10-nation disarmament conference at Geneva partly on lack of U.S. preparation.

The Geneva breakdown, the group said, "highlights the fact that we are unprepared to anticipate adequately proposals put forth not only by the Soviets but by our allies as well."

The Societ bloc walked out of the Geneva conference June 27 without waiting to hear new U.S. disarmament proposals which had been prepared.

A U.S. disarmament research group was proposed recently in bills by Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and John Kennedy (D-Mass.). But Congress did not enact them.

The Federation of Scientists, which claims 2,000 members, said in a statement, "it is clear that an adequate effort to achieve arms control with the Soviet Union requires substantially more work, money and organization than has thus far been devoted to the task.

"The administration's failure to provide the framework and financial support for such a concerted arms control research program represents a major failure."

Scouts To Enter Arctic Candidate

An Explorer Scout from Marin Boy Scouts Council may take part in an expedition to the Arctic.

Storrs H. Smith, Scout executive for the council, said today that a local explorer between the ages of 17 and 19 will be nominated to serve as a junior scientific aide at Camp Century in Greenland next fall and winter.

He must be a high school graduate and physically qualified to thrive under rigorous conditions. The name of an applicant and supporting material will be sent to the regional scout office by Aug. 10.

Aussie Father Offers Entire Fortune For Return Of Boy

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Basil Thorne, a traveling salesman who recently won $224,000 in a lottery, today offered to turn over his entire fortune for the safe return of his kidnaped son.

Thorne, who won the tax-free prize in the Sydney Opera House lottery June 1, made a personal plea to the kidnaper last night in a dramatic television appearance.

Thorne said he was prepared to give the kidnaper the entire amount he won—provided his 8-year-old son, Frederick Hilton Thorne, is released unharmed.

Police said the apparent kidnaper called the family saying, "I've got your boy, I want 25,000 pounds ($56,000) or I will feed him to the sharks."

Today is Friday, July 8, the 190th day of the year, with 176 more in 1960.

The moon is full.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1822, English poet Percy Bysshe Shelley drowned in Italy when the boat he was sailing capsized in a squall.

In 1935, the Liberty Bell in Independence Hall cracked as it was being rung during the funeral of John Marshall, chief justice of the U. S. Supreme Court.

In 1839, John D. Rockefeller was born in Richford, N. Y.

In 1896, William Jennings Bryan pleading for his silver money policy, made his famous "cross of gold" speech.

Barbers Union Claims Clipping By Convicts

The Barbers Union claims it is being clipped by California convicts, but no Marin barbers were on hand yesterday before the Assembly Interim Committee on Industrial Relations in San Francisco to testify that competition from San Quentin Prison was hurting their business.

Irving Ritter, business manager of San Quentin, told the four-member investigating committee that custodial officers get service at a six-chair barber shop staffed by inmates. It is part of the mutual benefits they get for $1.50 monthly dues to the San Quentin Employees' Mutual Benefit Assn.

In answer to questions from the committee, Ritter said the 92 houses inside the prison rent from $36 a month up. Most rent for $51 a month. A small percentage of the 750 prison employees live on the reservation, he said.

The Assembly interim committee yesterday was seeking testimony on Assembly Bill 1967, which would prohibit free personal services such as dry cleaning, shoe repariing and barbering by prisoners for state employees.

Shoe repair and laundry service is provided at San Quentin Prison for a nominal charge, Ritter said.

Testimony centered around free or cut-rate barbering. S. J. Olsen of the California State Assn. of Journeyman Barbers, Hairdressers, Cosmetologists, Masseurs and Proprietors, said if civil service employees inside prison walls get free haircuts so will employees outside prison walls. Thus, he said, barbering in California will be "completely free." Olson declared that convict barbers infringe the rights of California's 25,000 licensed barbers.

John W. McElheney, chief counsel of the California State Employees Assn., said the bill would cripple the rehabilitation program for inmates of prisons, state hospitals and youth training facilities.

Howard Comstock, personnel officer for the state Department of Corrections, said the work program—including that for barbers — was designed to rehabilitate prisoners and make them employable after their release.

Divers Bring Up Dead In Blimp Crash

LAKEHURST, N. J. (AP)—Divers started bringing up today the bodies of crewmen killed when a blimp crashed and sank 15 miles off the New Jersey coast.

The blimp, a 403-foot giant among present day airships, buckled in flight Wednesday and crashed off Barnegat inlet. Four crewmen were picked up then, but one died later. Seventeen others were missing and presumed dead.

The first body recovered from 55 feet of water at 9:15 a.m. was that of Henry V. Godbold, an airman, of Conway, S. C.

Two other were brought up from the gondola of the sunken blimp in the next hour and a half. They were Steve B. Thompson, machinist mate third class, 28, Spartansburg, S.C., and Lt. (j.g.) Richard V. Hall, of Beachwood, N.J.

Three-R Schools Will Open Calistoga, Palo Alto Classes

San Rafael's Three-R Schools, a profit-making private school, will open its third and fourth schools on Sept. 12 in Calistoga and Palo Alto.

Director James W. Kirchanski has incorporated the Stefan School in Calistoga for $200,000 and plans a similar $200,000 incorporation for Nova Albion School in Palo Alto.

Three-R Schools in San Rafael, the parent organization, was founded five years ago by Kirchanski. Last year a second school in Berkeley opened its doors.

"We will be out of the Bay Area by 1961," Kirchanski said, "New schools are being planned for southern California and outside the state," he said, "all because of requests."

Five hundred pupils from Marin County and Berkeley are enrolled this summer in the Three-R program at its school at 3833 Redwood Highway.

Enrollment next fall in San Rafael is estimated at 200; in Berkeley, 150; Palo Alto, about 100. Kirchanski did not have an estimate for the Calistoga School.

The two new schools are planned for kindergarten through eighth grade. The Berkeley school goes through the ninth grade, and the San Rafael school through high school.

Span Directors Pass Cut In Commute Rate

Golden Gate Bridge directors this morning unanimously approved a reduction in the commute rate across the bridge.

Effective Sept. 1 the 52-trip commute books will sell for $8, instead of $9, making an estimated $100,000 per saving for regular bridge users.

The new rate means the commuters will pay 15.38 cents per trip compared with 17.3 under the old rate, an 11.1 per cent reduction. Cash auto toll remains at 25 cents.

Marin Director Leland S. Murphy, who suggested the reduction more than a year ago, told the board that he had been worried that the long-range program for the span would delay toll reduction. He said he believes the bridge "can continue to cut tolls."

"I would like to see a 25 cent round-trip for commuters," he added.

The board of directors also passed a $1,895,048 budget for operating the bridge during the 1960-61 year. This is an increase of about a quarter of a million dollars over expenses of operating the span during the year ended June 30.

About half the increase is being devoted to engineering studies now underway of the widening of the Marin end of the span and for installation of traffic control arches.

The new budget includes a 5 per cent raise for all employees of the bridge district with the exception of those under union contract.

In other action the bridge directors:

1. Agreed to extend, for another six months, the test of four automatic toll collection machines. Director Murphy, who had voted against their retention in a committee meeting early this week, changed his mind and voted to keep the automatic collectors. He said, he "hadn't realized the bridge could save $5,000 removal fee by continuing the test," but insisted "I still do not believe in them."
2. Agreed with the building and operating committee that all design problems of the proposed traffic control arches he held in abeyance pending study of roadway lighting buttons along the traffic lines across the bridge as proposed by Miss Lucile Dandalet of San Anselmo.
3. Banned the riding of bicycles across the birdge, but will permit cyclists to walk their bikes over the span.
4. Renewed for five years the lease of the Round-House restaurant to Benjamine S. Stacey for 4½ per cent of the restaurant's gross revenue after taxes.
5. Approved printing of 25 cent script tickets for sale to truck operators at no toll rate decrease.
6. Received a letter from Charles M. Geller of San Anselmo urging consideration of another method of traffic control beside the arches.
7. Agreed to hold their next meeting on July 29 in the Sonoma County Board of Supervisor Chambers, Santa Rosa at 10 a.m.

'Tom Sawyer' Proposal Approved

Sausalito has set up a "workreation" program for its teenagers, to start Tuesday.

The "Tom Sawyer" type program was approved by the City Council at its meeting Tuesday at the suggestion of city manager Charles A. Brown.

Brown said today the program is for all teen-agers from 14 to 18. They are invited to meet at 1 p.m. Tuesday at the city hall to formulate their own schedules and rules of conduct. The program, Brown said, will cover four weeks as a trial and, if successful, it might in future years include a full summer program with pay for work performed.

The program will consist of four work-day programs and one recreation day, such as a picnic or a trip to Angel Island. Teen-agers would contribute approximately four hours a week.

Projects proposed are painting the Vina Del Mar Plaza Fountain, repairing and painting bus stops, clearing a picnic area at Bayside Park, and cleaning up and planting an area of the new parking lot between Bridgeway and Humboldt Avenue.

Lunch and refreshments will be provided each work day, and some recreation activity will be worked into each program, Brown said.

MARIN MAGAZINE

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
A WEEK OF GOOD READING

PROFILE OF THE WEEK—William McBride is well known in his hometown of Corte Madera for two reasons. First, he holds an important public position as the town's building inspector and zoning administrator. Secondly, he has one of the most unusual hobbies in Marin. He is a falconer. In next week's Marin Magazine you will meet McBride—and his prairie falcon, Vesta—in an article written by Independent-Journal reporter Carleton Williams. You'll learn why he took up this rare sport. And also something about the background that qualified McBride for the position of building inspector.
ONE OF A SERIES — Each week an Independent-Journal staff writer explores the character, achievements and human side of one of Marin's outstanding personalities — some of whom are all too little known by the neighbors.

SKIDDING CARDINAL—Joe Cunningham of St. Louis slides home from third on sacrifice fly by Stan Musial in seventh inning of yesterday's game against Giants at Candlestick. Cunningham had tripled. Catcher Bob Smith couldn't hang on to ball thrown by Willie Mays. Umpire is Chris Pelekoudas.

Palmer Gains, Final Round Is Postponed

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI)—Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., charged to within four strokes of the lead with a three-under-par 70 in the third round of the British Open Golf Championship today, but a putting blow-up on the last two holes blocked him from moving closer.

Short-but-steady Kel Nagle of Australia took over the lead at 207 with a two-under-par 71 while second-round leader Roberto De Vicenzo of Argentina blew up with a 75 for a 209 total to Palmer's 211.

The fourth round, which had been scheduled for this afternoon, was postponed until tomorrow because heavy rains which started during the morning round had flooded the course. It marked the first time that a round of the open had been postponed in more than 50 years.

Nagle took the lead on the strength of an eagle three on the tough 17th hole, sinking a 35-foot putt. Palmer needed a six-foot putt for a birdie on this hole but missed it, settled for a par, and three-putted the 18th green after missing a 10-footer.

NEW THREAT

Sid Scott of England became a new threat when he shot a six-under-par 67 for a 211 to tie Palmer. And British Amateur Champion Joe Carr of Ireland broke the amateur course record with another 67 for 212.

Palmer, bothered by jet planes during the first nine, by rain after the eighth hole, by a puffing train on the 15th, and a bee on the 16th, commented, "considering everything, I'm all burned up."

Four-time champion Peter Thomson of Australia and Sebastian Miguel of Spain, both tied with Palmer for third place at the end of the third round, both went over par and virtually took themselves out of contention. Miguel had a 39-35—74 for a 215 score and Thomson staggered through a 38-37—75 for 216.

Palmer, trying to stage a rally like those which won him the U.S. Open and Masters crowns this year, was four strokes under par at the end of 17 holes. But once again his putter failed him and he three-putted the 18th green to pick up the only bogey of his round.

Bill Johnston of Provo, Utah, the only other American in the field of 47 for the final two rounds, was one of the first to tee off in the third round and came in with a two-under-par 35-36—71 for a 54-hole total of 220.

Sanford Pitches Tonight, Tries To Halt Giant Skid

The Giants just went that-away—in the general direction of fourth place that is—and chances are they might land there tonight if Jack Sanford can't pull 'em out of the spins.

The chilly-eyed right-hander (8-5) goes after his third straight victory tonight when he faces the St. Louis Cardinals and Ray Sadecki (2-4) at San Francisco.

And if Sanford does go the route again it will be dandy with Manager Tom Sheehan of the reeling Giants.

"I don't see how our pitching could go so bad all of a sudden," Sheehan said yesterda after the Cards had thumped the locals, 7-3, to plaster 'em with their third straight loss. "And our hitting isn't much, even if we did get nine off (Larry) Jackson, I don't think he had so much."

Thanks to some confusion on Willie Kirkland's part, Jackson went the distance yesterday to post his 10th win although clubbed for nine hits.

CROWD STUNNED

Kirkland stunned the crowd of 14,614 experts, press boxpundits and Sheehan in the fifth inning when—with the bases full and two outs—he took a cut at a three and nothing pitch and flied out to Joe Cunningham to end the threat. It was a long clout but still an out.

"He got his signals mixed," Sheehan rumbled afterwards. "I told him just to forget it. But my God." . . .

Stan Musial played a key role in routing Sam Jones for his eighth loss early in the going. After Sam had loaded the bags with three passes in the second inning, Musial ripped a hot single to right field to bring in two runs and boost the Cards' margin to 4-0.

That was all for Jones and Johnny Antonelli came in to pitch the rest of the game. Big John had a better day at the plate than on the mound. Hitting a triple and single and scoring a run. During the 6⅔ innings he toiled Antonelli gave up six hits and two runs.

Musial drove in a total of

MUSIAL HEROIC

Musial drove in a total of three runs while refuting earlier reports that he was on the way out. After sending Sam home early in the third with the two-run single, Musial whacked another in the fifth to keep a St. Louis rally going, then brought home Cunningham from third with a sacrifice fly in the seventh. Cunningham had opened the inning with a triple.

Musial then raced back to the fence to gather in a long smash by Willie Mays in the Giants' half of the frame with two on.

All Giant-haters will be glad to know that the club now has lost 11 out of 17 contests and played two ties since Bill Rigney was ousted last month and replaced by Sheehan.

BATTING AROUND — Orlando Cepeda may be on the way out of a slump in which he had gotten only nine hits in 49 trips at game time. "Chico" homered and got two singles yesterday. "Too rare," he said afterward. "Steel I need more heets than that." . . . Sheehan tabs Stu Miller as the only member of the bullpen who is looking sharp and might start him Sunday against the Cubs . . . Solly Hemus, the Cardinal manager, says that the addition of Julian Javier to the infield has improved the team's defensive balance . . . Hemus was informed yesterday by a critical scribe that Don Blassingame was not looking too hot in San Francisco flannels . . . "He did the job for us last year," Hemus calmly answered. . . .

Feds Crack Down On L.A. Ducat Scalpers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The federal government is cracking down on scalpers of baseball tickets.

Thirteen suspects, nabbed Wednesday night near the Coliseum prior to the Dodger-Giant game, are to appear July 18 and 19 before U.S. revenue agents.

Dodgers Sizzle, But Fail To Gain Ground On Pittsburgh

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Dodgers have begun to look like world champions again, but they still have a long way to go to catch Pittsburght's Pirates in the National League race.

The Dodgers, who trail by 8½ games, moved within a half-game of third place San Francisco by whipping Chicago's Cubs 7-1 last night for their ninth victory in 11 games.

But the Pirates put away their fourth consecutive success when Bob Skinner cracked a two out two-run double in the ninth inning that beat Cincinnati 3-2. It was Pittsburgh's 11th last-inning victory.

It also retained their 5½-game spread over Milwaukee's second place Braves, who defeated Philadelphia 2-0 as Hank Aaron backed Warren Spahn's five-hitter with a home run and sacrifice fly.

St. Louis rapped San Francisco 7-3.

DRYSDALE SHARP

Right-hander Don Drysdale now has won his last two starts for a 6-10 record. He allowed eight hits and walked four, but struck out eight and blanked the Cubs after George Altman hit his third home run.

Duke Snider drove in three runs. His two-run triple — a high fly that was lost in the twi-light at the Coliseum — clinched it for the Dodgers as they scored three in the first off Mark Freeman (3-4).

The Pirates trailed 2-1 with two out and no one on base in the ninth at Cincinnati. Bill Mazeroski got them rolling with a single, his third hit, off reliever Jim Brosnan. Smoky Burgess, just back from a two-day suspension, followed with a pinch single off loser Bill Henry (1-4), who then gave up Skinner's winner.

Wilmer Mizell (5-5) was the winner, allowing four hits. Elroy Face wrapped it up in the ninth, allowing the Reds' fifth hit as they lost their fourth in a row.

Spahn (8-5), left off the All-Star staff, gained his 275th victory and 48th shutout — both all-time highs among N.L. southpaws—while walking just one and striking out 10. Lee Walls, who had two hits, and Bobby Del Greco singled with none out in the ninth for the Phils. But after Spahnie gave up a walk that loaded the bases with one out, Bobby Gene Smith hit into a double play.

Bill Bruton's double and a single by Del Crandall set up Aaron's sacrifice fly in the first inning against Chris Short (4-5). Aaron hit his 23rd home run in the sixth as the Braves ended their loss string at three.

Ingo Dropped To Fourth Place In Heavy Rankings

NEW YORK (AP) —To nobody's surprise, Floyd Patterson was named "fighter of the month" by Ring Magazine in its semi-monthly ratings announced today.

The heavyweight champion's unparalled feat of regaining the title made him a natural for the nomination. Ingemar Johansson, dethroned by Patterson, was dropped to the No. 4 spot among the challengers, with Sonny Liston in the No. 1 spot, Zora Folley second and Eddie Machen third.

Havana Team Withdrawn From Cuba

MONTREAL (UPI)—The International Baseball League today pulled its Havana franchise out of Cuba to protect its players against possible anti-American violence there.

League President Frank Shaughnessy told United Press International the league's clubs, which play in Havana, "feel that they can't go there again."

"They don't want to take a chance on the players getting injured," he said.

Shaughnessy said he was notifying Havana Sugar Kings owner Bob Maduro of the decision today.

He said it was not yet certain to which city the franchise would be moved, although Jersey City, N.J., was being considered. He said he did not know how soon such a decision would be made.

"I don't suppose Maduro is going to like it," Shaughnessy added in what sports circles regarded as one of the year's biggest understatements in sports. "Naturally, we don't like it, either. We don't want to leave, but we can't go on there."

Gillman's quarterback, as of now, is Jack Kemp of Occidental College.

"Kemp can throw long and short; he has poise, and I think he can go in any company," said Gillman.

Skill Required In Surf Casting; Here's Guide To Greater Success

STEVENS

Howdy, folks! The voice on the phone was plaintive: "Look, Mr. Stevens!" it began, "I have been trying all last month and up until yesterday to catch a bass on one of the beaches. I have seen dozens of them caught, but I haven't landed one yet. How about you writing an article on how it should be done?"

Okay, we'll try. Right at the start let us say that in making a survey this past weekend of three beaches—starting at Fleishhacker Pool Beach and ending at Pedro Point—we noted that at least 90 per cent of the hundreds of surfcasters were complete novices at the sport. They lacked the know-how of the game. We are convinced more skill is needed in surf casting than in any other form of striper striving.

So, let's start at the beginning—with the basic equipment needed: The rod should be at least nine feet in length and can be 11 feet. A hollow glass rod with three or four guides and tip-top. The tip-top should have a larger opening than the guides. The reel we like best is the wide-spool type filled with 150 yards of 36-pound test monofiliment or braided nylon line. (Never flood your reel with too much line.) At the end of the line we use a short (two foot or less) stainless steel leader. The sinker varies in weight according to the bottom conditions of the surf and the weight of the tackle. For the above rig, a six-ounce pyramid sinker on sandy bottom and a six-ounce Dipsey or round sinker for a rocky bottom.

FOR BAIT—There are a large number of artificials on the market—plugs, metal squids and bucktails. The metal squids include the bent sand eel and the very popular Hopkins, used extensively on the East Coast. The Bucktails are lead-headed and dolled up with bucktail or feathers (easy to make in your home workshop). Another type of lure often preferred by the experts is the eelskin lure or the skin plug (a natural eel skin worked onto a plug). It is our personal opinion, however, that the beginner will do well to stick to the natural baits—sardines, anchovies or herring. Sea worms, fiddler crabs, bullheads and even abalone guts have been used successfully.

If the bass are running large, 20 pounds or more, we suggest an Eagle Claw 6/0 or 7/0 hook. If the run is of "school bass" a smaller hook is in order.

SO YOU have the basic hook-up and the baits. What's to wear? Most of the old timers favor the breast-high waders, with some who prefer jeans over woolen underwear, old shoes and woolen socks. Our choice is the latter. Waders can be dangerous under certain conditions.

It's a good idea to scout the area you wish to fish—to learn the conformation of the bottom during low tide, location of sand bars, channels and holes where stripers are wont to frequent. Look for live bait in the water and watch if the gulls are interested in such places. There must be live bait around to attract the bass, you know.

Usually, but not always, the best action is had on the incoming and flood tides. Try fishing two hours before flood and two hours after. More fish are taken as a general rule the first hours after sunup and the last hours of sundown.

OKAY, WE will assume you are properly equipped, properly dressed and have the proper bait with you. You are ready to make the first cast. You place your rod over your shoulder and follow a receding wave out from shore as far as you can, until an incoming wave curls up and heads for you. You allow your sinker to drop almost to your heels and then make an overhand cast with all your power. You send that sinker out so that it drops on the seaward of the SECOND BREAKER. With your reel clutch still off, you hightail it back to the beach. You flip the reel into gear and it immediately starts retrieving line. You will continue retrieving (vary the speed of the retrieve from time-to-time) until the bait is actually in the wash. Quite frequently a lunker bass will follow the bait into very shallow water.

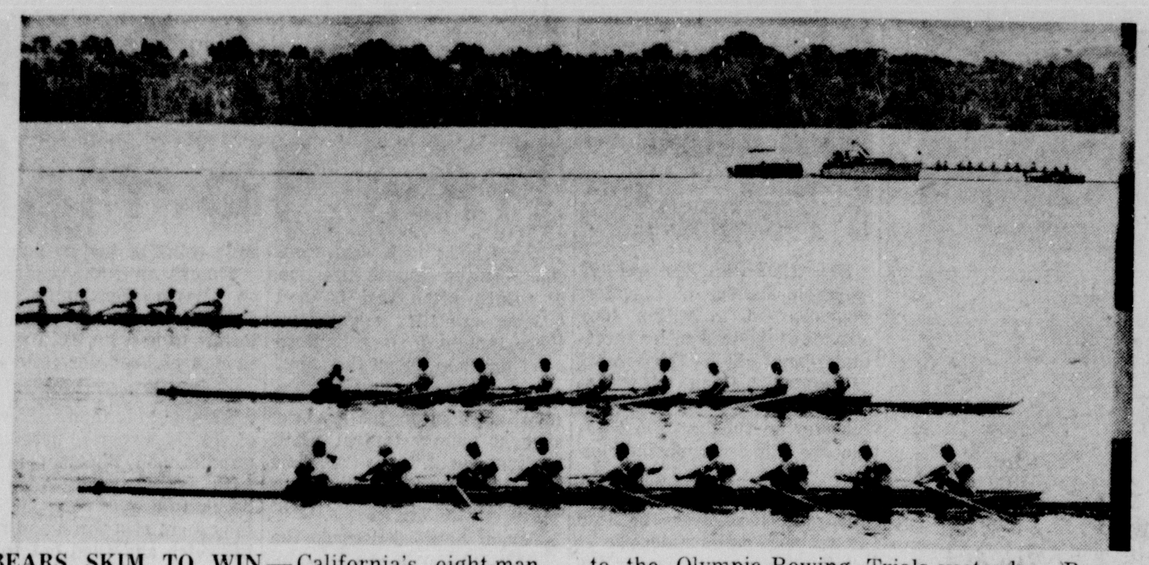
ABOVE ALL, don't attempt to horse the bass in. You have set your star drag just tight enough to be able to set the hook when the strike comes. Don't EVER tighten up the drag while fighting your fish because that's the surest way to lose a big bass. Don't try to fight the ocean, let it help you land your catch. Keep pumping and retrieving line when a wave is coming in, but release line when the wave recedes. If you time it right, you will gain on each incoming wave and eventually, one of those foaming combers will deposit your fish high and dry on the shore, for you to slip your fingers under its gills and drag him triumphantly clear of the next wave.

So, that's that. Hope you have gained something by reading the above, and that, unlike our caller, your next surfcasting adventure will have a happier ending. Good luck and go get 'em!

Foxx Broke, Seeks Unemployment Aid

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP) — Jimmy Foxx, member of Baseball's Hall of Fame who batted .364 and hit 58 homers in his peak year of 1932 with the old Philidelphia A's, has applied for Illinois unemployment compensation.

Old "double X," who reputedly earned $250,000 during his 22 years in the major leagues and lost much of it in what he has said were "bad investments," applied for compensation yesterday which could bring him $35 a week for a maximum of 26 weeks.



BEARS SKIM TO WIN—California's eight-man crew nips Cornell by a boat deck at finish to win the first heat for eights in the preliminaries to the Olympic Rowing Trials yesterday. Brown, which led a good share of the way, finished third. Story below. (AP Wirephoto)

Bears' Crew Steals Show In Prelims

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — California, Navy's varsity and a Syracuse shell wore victory hats into the semi-finals of the Olympic rowing trials today. But any one of a half dozen other eight-oared crews could well make the jaunt to Rome.

Rousing finishes in three preliminary heats on Onodaga Lake yesterday left little doubt this country has a bevy of well-matched eights, if not one that is outstanding.

The choice, as well as in six small-boat classes, will come in the finals tomorrow over the 2,000-meter (1¼-mile) course.

America's hold on the eight-oared event, supreme since 1920, faces a stern challenge in the 1960 Olympics from Germany and Australia.

However, this country's small-boat fleet, dominated by Seattle's Lake Washington Boat Club, appears more powerful than ever. Lake Washington put a pair with coxswain into the finals and three fours with and without coxswain into the semi-finals.

SINGLES SHOWDOWN

Harry Parker of the Philadelphia Vespers, a Navy lieutenant, and Wayne Frye, one-time Navy star, appeared headed for a showdown in the singles sculls.

But it was the big eights, the glamor boys, who stole the opening-day show.

California nipped Cornell's varsity by 15 feet in one heat, surprising Brown, battling the favorites most of the way, faded at the end and finished third ahead of the Union Boat Club of Boston.

The Cornell junior varsity lost to Navy by a narrow seven feet in another. Harvard, cofavored with California, was a disappointing third.

In the third heat, the Syracuse Alumni Rowing Assn. held off Navy's previously unbeaten plebes and won by 30 feet. Washington and Penn, favored in this heat, wound up third and fourth.

Indians Stunned By 'Forgotten Man'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's getting so everyone apparently has forgotten Billy Pierce except the Cleveland Indians, who wish they could. The Chicago White Sox southpaw was overlooked as a starting pitcher in last fall's World Series and passed over by his own manager, Al Lopez, when the American League's All-Star staff was named. But he's been a one-man roadblock to Indian pennant hopes.

He beat the second place Injuns for the fifth straight time in a 9-3 decision last night that gave the White Sox a sweep of a two-game series at Cleveland.

This one dropped Cleveland three games behind the first place New York Yankees who beat the Orioles 6-3.

Detroit defeated Kansas City 6-3, and Washington split a twi-night pair at Boston. The Senators won 6-5, then lost 4-2.

PIERSALL HOMERS

Pierce (7-4) gave up seven hits, one a homer by Jim Piersall, while winning his fourth decision in the last six.

Al Smith, who was 4-for-4, and Gene Freese each homered and drove in three runs for the White Sox in a 13-hit attack. Freese's shot, with two on, came in a winning five-run third off Jim Perry (9-4), who lost only two of his last 10 decisions.

A two-run seventh inning, triggered by Clete Boyer's homer and capped by Tony Kubek's sacrifice fly, brought the Yankees from behind against loser Milt Pappas (7-6). Winner Duke Maas (1-1) and Bobby Shantz shut out the Birds on four hits over the last five innings in relief of Bob Turley.

The Tigers scored five in the third inning climaxed by Eddie Yost's two-run single, and sent Don Larsen (0-5) to his 11th straight loss. Left-hander Don Mossi (6-6) was the winner.

The Senators made it four in a row in the opener in a two-run seventh. Camilo Pascual (8-5) won it. Frank Sullivan (3-10) was the loser.

Billy Muffett (1-1), making only his seventh start in the majors and first since 1958, pitched a four-hitter for the Red Sox in the nightcap for his first A.L. victory. Willie Tasby, who scored the first two runs, beat Bill Fischer (3-5) with a two-run single in the fourth.

Giants Saw Some Raw Decisions On Trip, Especially In Chicago

HANLEY

Why can't baseball managers present their side of the case in disputes with umpires? The only time a manager is permitted to give his side of the story is when he files an official protest of a game. And that must be based on a misinterpretation of a rule by the umpires. Any decision involving an umpire's judgment cannot be the basis for a protest.

Generally, the National League umpires do a fine job. But during the last road swing with the Giants we saw some calls that would have snapped Job's patience. Let's take just one example, the one freshest in mind.

In the fourth inning of that 14-inning game that wound up in a 1-1 deadlock in Wrigley Field, the situation was this: The Giants had just tied the score and, with the bases loaded and two out, had a chance to break the game wide open. Andre Rodgers was at bat. He chopped one down the third base line. Dusty Boggess was the third base umpire.

NOW, EVEN allowing for the fact that Boggess was in perfect position to exercise the best judgment whether Rodgers' chopper bounced fair over the third base bag before Cub third sacker Ron Santo caught it on the foul side of the line, Boggess definitely and unmistakably pointed foul while at the same time he shouted "fair!"

Santo had to cut back a couple of steps on the fair side of the playing field to tag third for the force on the runner coming in from second. Everyone in the crowd of 36,569 couldn't understand what happened. Hadn't they seen Boggess point foul?

NONE IN the Chicago crowd could hear Boggess shouting "fair." Santo was the only player on the field close enough to Boggess to hear the umpire shouting, if he did hear the "fair" shout which Boggess subsequently insisted he made. All of the other Cub players, having seen Boggess point foul, remained at their positions until Cub Manager Lou Boudreau, belatedly sensing what was going on, jumped out of the dugout and waved all his players off the field.

Meanwhile, the Giants swarmed around Boggess and 66-year-old Tom Sheehan came trudging across the field from the Giant dugout on the first base side. He did not even get to Boggess and let the incident pass when third base coach Salty Parker explained the situation to him.

"Dusty," Parker old Sheehan, "said he immediately called it a fair ball and in his mind it was fair despite his pointing foul."

A MATTER of judgment, therefore, from which there is no appeal. The fact that Parker, also in a pretty good position to judge whether the ball was fair or foul, thought it was foul by two feet never could be cited to the National League office since that merely was Parker's judgment. Such testimony is considered as prejudiced by the league president.

Giants' Organ Powerless, Too

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There was a power failure at Candlestick Park yesterday.

Ballplayers, umpires and fans stood at attention for four minutes before the Giants' game with the St. Louis Cardinals, waiting to hear the national anthem. The organ power failed.

So did the Giant power. The Cards won 7-3.

Ex-Giant Lineman Obtained By L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams have acquired offensive guard Al Barry, formerly of the University of Southern California, from the Dallas Cowboys.

The Rams yesterday traded line-backer Hugh Pitts for Barry, a 230-pounder with four years' experience in the National Football League. He was a starting guard last year with the New York Giants, who won the Eastern Conference championship, and was one of three men Dallas acquired last March from the Giants as the Cowboys were admitted to the NFL. He has played with the Green Bay Packers.

Pitts was a Ram linebacker in 1956, then retired to enter private business in Houston.

Mahogany Is Done Up In Browns

CHICAGO (UPI)—The furniture designers who know mahogany best have done it up brown.

Those accustomed to red mahogany were surprised when 40 tones of brown turned up among the more than 150 new finishes for mahogany shown at the International Home Furnishings Market.

Mahogany had been red for so many years that people had forgotten its natural tones of tawny sherry and sunny amber that age to warm golden or deep mellow browns.

Furniture makers, however, remembered the warm, natural tones of mahogany, which seemed a natural for informal, contemporary furniture.

Makers of period furniture joined in the return to the natural tones of mahogany once favored by Hepplewhite, Sheraton and Duncan Phyfe at his prime. Phyfe did use woods other than mahogany, but only in his latter years when he was turning out what he called "butcher furniture."

Not all the new browns available in mahogany are the natural color of the wood, but even the dyed ones are a far cry from the old, opaque red finish that hid the wood's beauty and distorted its natural tones. The distinctive personality of mahogany, its grain figure patterns and its pores show through the new finishes, natural or dyed.

The same transparent finishes that changed the look of mahogany this year were used on numerous other hardwoods to show off their natural grain and beauty.

Marin Women

Federation Of Women's Clubs Slates Activities In Future

"Responsive, Responsible Citizenship for Survival," the theme of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will set the pattern for the California Federation under the leadership of the new president for the 1960-62 term of office, Mrs. Earl J. Hazelton of Orland.

Plans and dates for workshops, board meetings and conventions were announced at the annual summer conference of the State executive board just concluded in Fresno. State board meetings are scheduled for Oct. 27-27 in San Francisco, and Jan. 31 through Feb. 2 in Los Angeles. The 1961 convention will be in Sacramento, May 8-11, with Sutter district in charge. Convention committee to include Mrs. Frederic Spencer of North Hollywood, the state vice president, Mrs. Paul R. Smith of Santa Monica; Mrs. Alan W. Young of South Gate; Mrs. Charles L. Blek of Inglewood; Mrs. Walter Harness of Willows; and Mrs. George Alexander of Sacramento, president of Sutter district.

The board voted to reaffirm the following policies: opposition to paid television, to oppose the reapportionment of the senate, and to endorse and urge the division of beaches and parks to purchase the watershed area above the CFWC Redwood Grove in Bull Creek area, Humboldt County, and to recommend that such funds be appropriated.

Three new clubs were accepted into membership in the state federation: The Country Woman's Club of Campbell in Loma Prieta district; The Lake Hughes Woman's Club in Sierra Cahuenga district; and the Rincon Valley Woman's Club in Sonoma district.

In line with the General Federation program, the board adopted as the state international project for the next two years the CARE self help community development program for Latin America. Mrs. Gordon E. Smith of Sacramento will chairman the international project committee.

The board voted to participate again in the Community Achievement contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Sears Roebuck Foundation. Mrs. A. E. Walter of San Diego, community improvement chairman, head the program.

A training workshop for state chairmen in the public affairs and government departments is scheduled for Oct. 28 and 29 in Sacramento, in conjunction with the state government on social welfare, health, youth authority, education and mental hygiene.

Kern Loo of San Francisco, general manager of the Chinatown Exchange, will speak on "Customs of the Old Chinese" at the meeting of the Open Door Club tonight in Trevitt Hall, Novato.

Loo is an outstanding speaker and one who is in great demand throughout the area.

Potluck supper will be served at 7 o'clock. Guests are asked to bring their own place settings as well as food. Mr. Loo will speak at 8 p.m. Those unable to attend the supper are urged to come to the program.

An Expert Defends Urban Life

NEW YORK (UPI)—The city slum with its dirty vacant lots probably was a better place to raise children than modern suburbs and institutional playgrounds, a New York University sociologist claims.

Attacking the most sacred beliefs of city planners and modern architects and sociologists, Prof. Ernest von den Hagg wrote in a recent issue of American Scholar that our cities are becoming unfit for human living because of these ideas.

He said this is creating a dangerous crisis for North America because the whole world is rapidly becoming urbanized.

Modern architects and city planners deliberately destroy the traditions, a soul, the color and vitality of the cities, Prof. van den Hagg said, because of a mistaken belief in the importance of functionalism.

"To raise slums and rebuild in such a way as to house fewer people is pointless," he said, "the slum is displaced but not eliminated . . . there is more life, and perhaps, more communal feeling, in a slum than in many a suburb . . . I am not even convinced that an empty lot is not a better place for children to play than an institutional playground. It surely fosters independence, imagination and spontaneity far more than most playgrounds."

Prof. van den Hagg said slums don't breed crime any more than hospitals breed death and to imagine you can reduce crime by slum clearance is as silly as to believe you could end sickness by closing the hospitals.

Dressing Mix

New onion salad dressing mix produces a mild, creamy dressing when blended with water, oil and vinegar. For flavor variations, substitute catsup or fruit juice for water.

Male Chef Tells How To Barbecue

CHICAGO (UPI)—Meat intended for the backyard barbecue should be generously larded with fat and cooked by a male chef, suggests one amateur male chef.

Bob Bentley, Columbus, Ohio, displayed barbecue meats and sauces at the recent convention of the National Food Distributors Assn. and offered advice on how to win friends over the backyard grill.

"The best tenderloin in the world can come out tasting like sawdust if all the fat is trimmed off before it's put on the grill," he said.

"Let the fire burn down to white coals, scrape away the ashes, then put the meat on the grill. Melting fat will drip down into the hot coals and send smoke drifting up to barbecue the meat.

"If a barbecue sauce is used as a baster, wait until the last 10 minutes of cooking, when pores of the meat have been opened by the heat.

"The little woman should limit herself to setting the table. Barbecuing is man's work."

MRS. ROLF STAHLBAUM JR.

Carol Hemm Bride Of R. K. Stahlbaum

The Stewart Memorial Chapel of San Francisco Theological Seminary at San Anselmo was the scene of the recent wedding of Carol Jean Hemm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Hemm of Novato, to Rolf K. Stahlbaum Jr., of Kentfield.

Rev. Howard B. Swartz officiated at the double ring ceremony at one o'clock in the chapel which was decorated with white gladioli with pink centers, greenery and stock. Albert N. Hemm gave his daughter in marriage. Carol Jean was gowned in a dress of heirloom lace with long sleeves, with basque waist, and a voluminous skirt. A seeded pearl and orange blossom coronet held her fingertip illusion veil. She carried a spray of butterfly orchids, stephanotis, and lily of the valley.

Susan Marie Hemm, sister of the bride, was maid of honor in a pink lace basque waist organza over taffeta full skirt gown. Her accessories were a pink veil held by a rose velvet bandeau and rose velvet shoes. She carried a rose and white carnation nosegay.

Carol J. Burns of San Rafael was bridesmaid. Her dress was like that of the maid of honor. She wore a pink veil and pink shoes and carried a pink and white nosebay.

A pink organza full skirted dress was worn by the flower girl, Susan Hayden, of Novato. She carried a pink and white flower basket to match her flowered headdress.

Best man for the couple was Bud Chamberlain of Soledad. Kenneth Marten and Philip O. Bill of San Rafael ushered.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hemm was attired in a beige lace over satin sheath dress, beige shoes and gloves, and a beige flowered hat.

Mrs. Evans wore for her son's wedding a blue satin sheath dress with a lavender orchid corsage.

The bride's home was the scene of a reception for 115 guests following the ceremony. Gladioli and other flowers decorated the patio. A four tier wedding cake was decorated with lavender flowers. Gloria Nicholas of Seattle registered guests. The cake was served by Mrs. Susan Hooglon of San Rafael. Mrs. Ralph Towne of San Rafael and Mrs.t Florence Rossi of Mora Bay poured.

Dressed in beige with pearl blue accessories the bride left with her husband for a one week motor trip to Mt. Shasta and Reno. The couple are at home to friends in Kentfield.

The bride is a graduate of Franklin High School and is employed at the Pacific Telephone Company in San Rafael. She is the sister of Susan Hemm of San Rafael. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Theresa Pelley of San Diego and Martin D. Hobart of Tacoma, Washington.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lyle Evans of Sleepy Hollow and Rolf K. Stahlbaum of San Rafael. He is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and attended the College of Marin. He is employed by the Kentfield Fire Department. He is a brother of Mrs. Ken Marten of San Rafael. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Stahlbaum of Kentfield, Mrs. Florence Varner of San Rafael, and Mr. H. C. Little of Santa Rosa.

Decorators Design Room Setting To Enhance Feminine Beauty

By JOYCE SCHULLER

CHICAGO (UPI)—Interior decorators are learning what every woman knows—that the right colors enhance feminine beauty.

To illustrate the theory, four Midwestern decorators recently designed room settings color-keyed to the redhead, the blonde, the brunette and the gray-haired woman. Ellen Noreen Baum, nationally-known hair coloring expert, commissioned the designs.

To show the redhead at her best, designer Esther Cichy created an Early American room of warm, earthy tones — Brittany beige, mustard, deep orange, bronzy yellows and terra cotta. She used an abundance of provincial prints and plaids, confident they would not overpower the vivid coloring of the red-haired, ivory-skinned woman.

Designer Marie Stosskopf did a contemporary setting in golden bronze shades from ash to platinum for the blonde. For the blue-eyed blonde, there were accents of cerulean blue in a table lamp and drapery fabric. Pale bronze-green carpeting and a table surfaced in eggshell cracked ceramic completed the soft decor for the blonde.

Designer Bert Curtin's more dramatic setting for the brunette combined vivid shades of American beauty with Victorian furnishings. It contrasted pale rose-tree papered walls with deep tones of American beauty in moires and satin draperies. All this, and a shell-shaped white stone fountain, surrounded by pots of pink geraniums, on a floor of shaded red mosaic tile, failed to overpower the brunette model in the setting.

A setting for the grey-haired woman, by Lois Rosenberg, started with the premise that gray hair is a sign of maturity and elegance that can make a woman her most beautiful. It blended a collection of colors based on heliotrope, including hues and shades of violet, mauve pink and crimson, all in highly-textured fabrics. The crimson, used in wallpaper, was antiqued in silvery blue and blond with violet-textured upholstery on a bone-white sculptured chair.

Little Reasons Make A Big Difference

By VIVIAN BROWN

Why doesn't he call again?

That's the question likely to be uppermost in the mind of a teen-ager who has had a few dates with a boy she likes and in vain awaits another date.

He doesn't call again for reasons a girl might not suspect, says one mother of four dating boys. She has learned this from years of asking her sons, "Whatever happened to so-and-so? Why don't you ever see her any more?"

Drinking out of a soda bottle, for instance, is taboo in the eyes of one son, she says. "Girls should drink out of glasses," he said when asked why he dropped Ann from his date book.

The same young man doesn't like girls who eat a lot when on a date. "He cannot bear a girl who is a constant nibbler. He doesn't like girls who munch, and chewing gum is subject to special scorn," says the mother.

One young man can't bear girls who wear tight slacks. Another young man abhors girls who carry dress too far, such as "dressing up like a racing car driver because you have invited her for a ride in your sports car."

Dribbling pizza pie when eating it so that the lipstick runs can annoy a boy who isn't a gem of neatness himself. But the same boy could be annoyed if a girl is constantly fussing with her lipstick.

A new complaint concerns girls changing bathing suits on the beach. Now that we have quick-dry suits, many girls wear their suits to the beach under culottes or skirt and sweater or what have you.

The boys do not like the idea. "I don't mind if a girl dries her suit thoroughly before she gets back in my car," says one fastidious jalopy owner, but she usually wears a cover-all she doesn't care about, insists on having a final swim before we leave the beach, and then gets my car upholstery soaking wet."

Girls are messy when it comes to bringing sand into the car, and one boy criticized a recent date because she wasn't more considerate of his car. He has a point.

"We left the beach. My girl's legs and feet were loaded with sand. When we got to my car, she opened the door, climbed in, and proceeded to beat the sand off with a towel. When she had sand everywhere, she asked for a whisk broom so she could brush out the car, but I didn't have one. Why didn't she think of that before or take the sand off outside the car door? I just can't figure girls."

The girls feel the same way, boys. They just can't figure you. The same fellow who'll drive up in a dusty car to pick a girl up will object if she drops a hairpin on the seat of his car of if she moves the mirror so that she can make up.

Paint Main Ingredient For Decor Of Country Cottage

By JOYCE SCHULLER

CHICAGO (AP)—Paint is the main ingredient of practical decor for the country cottage.

Use it on walls, even if they are unplastered boards, to protect them against dampness as well as to brighten them. Paint them light blue, aqua, blue-green or blue-lilac to make even tiny roms look spacious and airy as well as cool and restful. White walls, another good choice for the summer cottage, tend to look as fresh and clean as white clothes.

Warm, sunny colors, including yellow, coral, rose and pink, also have a place in the cottage, but are best confined to use as accents.

It's a good idea to paint cottage furniture, too; a summer home is no place to worry about feet on chairs and couches, glasses left on tables, or waxing or polishing. Painted furniture will stay clean and shining with a swish of a dust-cloth or damp sponge.

New enamels make it easy to paint virtually any kind of furniture—wooden, wicker, metal or wrought iron. There are special enamels for metal furniture, and aerosol spray enamels are easy to use on wicker. Old furniture from home, attic or second-hand shops will look new with one or two coats of the improved paints available.

Fabrics for the cottage should be practical, too. Denim and the no-iron fabrics are good choices, and flowered prints and gay ginghams will add a bright, summery touch to any room. Even sheets make pretty curtains and slipcovers, with some artificial flowers sewn on in a random pattern.

Scatter rugs that can be tossed into the washer are practical floor coverings

The luncheon was attended by both Native Daughters and Native Sons of the Golden West.

KEILHOLTZ HOME SETTING FOR A PARTY

The Fourth of July marked the occasion for a welcome home party at the Ralph Keilholtz home in Sleepy Hollow.

Mr. Keilholtz returned on Sunday from a business trip to Sweden.

Attending were Mrs. Keilholtz along with their daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lax (Mardee Keilholtz) of Novato, and Mr. and Mrs. James Faggiano (Pat Keilholtz) also of Novato.

The afternoon's entertainment centered around the pool where "water baseball" was enjoyed.

Among the guests were Messrs. and Mesdames Edward Morgan of San Francisco, Christopher Schultz, Greenbrae; Donald Fraser, San Anselmo; Gregory Vincent, Sleepy Hollow; Herbert Shirley and son, Noel, San Anselmo, and Mrs. Edward Benson of Kent Woodlands, whose husband is on a business trip to Saudi Arabia. Grandchildren, Steven and Kenneth Faggiano, also joined in the celebration.

MR. AND MRS. William Parachini are pictured following their recent wedding at Park Wedding Chapel in Reno. The bride, the former Myrtle Leadstrom, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Leadstrom of San Anselmo.

Vows Traded At Chapel In Nevada

Recentiy married at Park Wedding Chapel in Reno, Nev., were Mr. and Mrs. William Parachini. The double ring ceremony was held at 3:30 p.m. Rev. Warren D. Ward officiated. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Phoebe Wright, who wore a yellow lace gown with beige accessories and carried a bouquet of blue and white iris.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of white lace with fitted bodice. Puffed sleeves adorned the jacket. The shoulder length veil was of nylon and seed pearls. She carried orchids in the form of a cross.

Upon their return from their honeymoon at the Riverside Hotel in Reno, the couple were given a buffet reception by the parents of the bride at their home in San Anselmo. The three tiered cake was decorated with a bride and groom under an arch with gardenias surrounding the cake.

Mrs. Parachini, graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School in 1959, is employed at Glen-Five and Ten in San Rafael. Formerly Myrtle Leadstrom, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Leadstrom of San Anselmo.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parachini, is employed at Hopfield Industrial Manufacturing Co. in San Rafael and attended Sir Francis Drake High School.

HOT WEATHER HAZARD

Here's How To Prevent Cook-Out Catastrophes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Don't let the picnic spirit overwhelm your safety know-how, when rallying 'round the charcoal grill.

The National Safety Council now includes the cook-out catastrophe on its summertime hazard list.

"If you know what you're doing, you can have burgers without hazards in your backyard," Phil Dykstra, head of the NSC Home Department, said in an interview.

"But cook-out accidents are increasing and it's a safe assumption that more than a few cook-out chefs don't know what they're doing."

For the cook-out, Dykstra suggested the following safety rules:

—do your cooking in the open, away from anything that might catch fire.

—situate the grill on solid footing, preferably near a hedge or foliage that will help break the wind. Don't put it in a place where it will block traffic.

—to get the fire started the safest way, use the time-honored wood shavings.

—never use gasoline, kerosene or lighter-fluid to start a fire.

—keep a bucket of sand near the grill. Use it to douse any fire caused by the flaring up of grease.

—keep only one pint of liquid fire starter on the premises at one time. Only adults should use such liquids.

—dress for the job, wearing a large, fairly heavy apron, pot holder type gloves and nothing frilly. A denim apron is best.

Dykstra said most barbecue burns are caused by the flare-up of fire touched off by the tipping and splattering of grease.

Other accidents are caused by strong blasts of wind whipping the hot coals into flames and directing them toward the cook.

Where the children are concerned. Dykstra suggested the firmest parental discipline. Toddlers most often burn themselves by touching or tipping the grill.

"The children should be taught that the grill is off-limits until they are old enough to realize the danger," he said.

Francis B. Elder, associate director of the American Public Health Assn., made additional suggestions.

Sharp-pronged cook-out tools shouldn't be left in a place where a person can trip over them. Don't let guests—adult or juvenile—use the tools for horseplay.

"It's all meant in fun," he said, "but a playful jab with a long-pronged fork can go wild and injure an eye."

Elder urged caution when using an electric grill that's hooked up with extension cords from inside the house.

"When the grass is wet or the hands are wet, grabbing a make-shift connection may cause electrocution."

The experts warned against hitting the panic button, if an accident does occur.

If clothing catches fire, don't run. Roll on the lawn.

If the accident is a little one, causing a minor burn, cleanse it and apply ointment or petroleum jelly.

More serious injuries require a doctor's attention to head off possible infection and after-scarring.

BALLET GROUP ENTERTAINED AT PARTY IN FROHLICH HOME

Mrs. Bari Frohlich, director of the Junior Cotillion of Marin, was recently hostess to 27 members and friends of the Bay Area Ballet at her San Rafael home. Trader Vic champagne cup was served on a gaily decorated oak tree terrace. A green wheelbarrow filled with crushed ice held a great variety of fruit. Colorful Japanese lanterns hung from the trees and large Japanese umbrellas formed a colorful background. A buffet supper was served in the dining room where the table evoked much enthusiasm from the ballet-minded group. It was covered with a "toe shoe pink" felt cloth with pink net on top. The centerpiece was a little silver stage with four ballerinas costumed in pink net tutus.

Guests arriving at the Frohlich residence for the first time found an interesting landmark to guide them in a beautiful mosaic mail box. They arrived in a spirit of great enthusiasm following the outstandingly successful performance at the Marin Art and Garden Fair.

Guests included Ballet Directors Leona Norman, Carolyn Parks, and Vern Nerden; musical director Charles Orgibet; artistic director Marc Wilde; guest dancer Alan Howard; and Irina Barowska, formerly prima ballerina of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. Miss Barowska's beauty and charm captivated those present and they bemoaned the fact that her foot injury had prevented her dancing.

Vocal Recital Set For Resek Students

Madame Bella Resek of Mill Valley will present her pupils in a vocal recital tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., at the Outdoor Art Club.

Students to perform are Sally Champlin, Cathleen Crain, Jan McCready, Kay Donovan, Miranda Forwood, Ralph McGlophlen, Susannah Lewis, Janey Marsh, Allan Maxey, Lisa Mibach. Konnie Klank will accompany the soloists.

Central Heating

One of the newest Western fireplace ideas is the free-standing unit in the center of a living or faming room. It can be either a nostalgic Franklin stove type unit or one of exciting contemporary design. In any case, almost all Western building codes require a fireproof flooring beneath and behind the free-standing fireplace, and the most logical choice of materials is ceramic tile. Real tile is completely fireproof and its ease of cleaning makes it specially desirable for this use.

Spinning Spurs Dance Tomorrow

The Spinning Spurs will hold the last square dance of the summer tomorrow at the IDESI Hall, Novato, from 8 to 12 pm.. Skip Graham will be the caller.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Meyers and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maydole will be in charge of the evening.

All square dancers are invited. Refreshments will be served.

Like A Gem

The newest simulated diamond looks like a gem and even, the manufacturer says, cuts glass—passing one of the layman's tests for telling a real diamond from a fake one. The retail price: $16 a carat. Sizes range from one to 20 carats, but the manufacturer makes larger ones upon request. A pear-shaped 45 carat stone, set in 14 carat gold, retails for $2,500. If it were a real diamond, the cost would be $250,000 or more.

For The Barbecue

A new appliance for the barbecue set operates on electricity instead of charcoal, is smokeless, but can be used either indoors or out. Made of chrome plated steel, it has an aluminum drip pan and removable rack. It weights eight pounds, and operates on AC or DC

Camp Fire Has Parade During Calistoga Fest

The "Kilowana Killers" walked away with third prize in the "Horrible Parade" held recently during the Calistoga Festival. The "Killers" were the campers and counselors from nearby Marin County Camp Fire Girls resident camp-Kilowana.

The theme for the parade was "comedy" and the campers chose to be "bugs". The girls worked long hours making their costumes and came creeping from their kiosks as ants, caterpillars, bees, bed bugs, slugs, banana worms, and spiders. These were followed by one girl dressed as a can of DDT and one with a long spray gun trying to exterminate the "Kilowana Killers".

After participating in the parade, the campers watched the other entrants then all went to the creamery for ice cream cones.

Tint Gives A Lift To Hand-Me-Downs

Is your younger child a victim of hand-me-downs? Must he or she always wear clothes outgrown by an elder brother or sister?

But, you argue, I can't afford to buy a whole new wardrobe for both children and the outgrown clothes are perfectly good and will fit the younger child.

If this is true, then why not take a tip from the American Home Laundry Manufacturers' Association and make those hand-me-downs look new and different by tinting them a new shade.

Even the child's close friends aren't likely to recognize a second-hand garment if it's in a bright new color.

For just a few cents, a package of dye may be purchased. With the same ease and no more time than it takes to launder it, a garment may be dyed in your automatic washer.

Dyeing directions are simple. Just be sure the garment is clean before attempting to dye it, since a pattern of tinted soil would certainly not be desirable. Also, be sure to presoak or wet the garment before putting it in the machine filled with dye water to avoid streaking.

Do fill the washer with hot water first. Dilute the dye with at least a pint of hot water before adding it to the washer. Turn on the machine and allow it to run for about a minute to be sure the dye is evenly distributed throughout the water before adding the garment or garments to be dyed.

Stop the machine and set the controls for the usual washing cycle for the type garments to be dyed, add the garments and let the machine do the rest.

When tinting, be sure that any excess dye or drippings around the door on the outside are wiped off immediately to avoid winding up with a pea-green spotted appliance.

Also put paper on the floor just in case a spot or two of dye might drip on the floor and give it a tint not quite in harmony with the decor of the room in which the appliance is located.

After using your automatic to dye, be sure that all excess dye is removed from appliance. The easy and sure way to do this is to add one-half cup detergent and a cup of bleach to wash water, and allow the washer to go through two complete cycles before putting in any laundry.

Complete directions for machine dyeing are given with each package of dye. Do follow these instructions for best results.

For Little Boys, Things Are Not What They Used To Be

Do you feel sorry for your sons? I do. The things we enjoyed during our summer vacations are now illegal. What chance do the poor kids have?

We shot off fireworks. Remember? They were dangerous, but they were fun. I have always hoarded my firecrackers. I could make loud, unexpected bangs clear up to Labor Day.

My boy? He doesn't know a pinwheel from a Roman candle. Fireworks are illegal. If he did what I did, he'd be labeled a juvenile delinquent.

We worked, and were proud of it. We found jobs early. The men who hired us didn't have to worry about permits, inspections, reports and unfathomable regulations. My first job was delivering meat for a butcher shop. I was 10. When I was 13 I did a man's work, running a machine in a fruit packing house. The lessons I learned on my summer jobs have helped me all my life.

Our sons? They can't even get easier jobs until they're 16.

We broke the law occasionally. When we were caught we were punished immediately. No delay, no red tape. My nemesis was our small-town constable. One night he saw me nailing a sign I'd stolen from the butcher shop to the front of a doctor's office. He took me home and told my dad. That was enough.

If my boy did the same thing, what would happen? (1) He'd be formally arrested. (2) He'd be taken to a juvenile home. (3) He'd be locked up for an indeterminate period. (4) Finally, he'd be brought into juvenile court. Along the way he'd learn some very bad lessons. No good, is it?

I'm not against progress, you understand. But I'm glad I'm not a boy in the summer of 1960!

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "My twins are almost 3. Formerly they were obedient, and good. Now they are very naughty. Have I made some awful mistakes with them?"

S.M.I.

(A) Almost certainly you have not. They're entering the period of childhood rebellion. All children go through it. Ask your neighbors about their children at 3. They'll help you understand.

Underground Water Brings Desert To Life

DESERT CENTER (AP)—In an 11,000-acre valley northeast of here, where five years ago the sun and the sand were unbridled masters of everything that moved, where sidewinders outnumbered human beings 1,000 to one, man is trying to take the desert away from nature.

The outcome may well be the forerunner of desert conquests on a far bigger scale. It also may determine what fruits and vegetables will be grown on the millions of acres of California desert wastelands when more water becomes available.

Right now, because the government says there is enough underground water to cultivate only 11,000 acres, the conquest is going on on a limited scale. But Desert Center is quickly becoming a large oasis in the middle of nowhere in Riverside County.

A determined group of desert homesteaders from Los Angeles to Corcoran in the San Joaquin Valley, but mostly from Kern County, are converting the sagebrush covered terrain of desert sand to a rich green garden of fruits and vegetables.

Crops that already have been raised include grapefruit, grapes, melons, alfalfa, tomatoes, squash, milo maize and citrus. Others, including fruit and shade trees have been planted.

All this was made possible by the discovery seven years ago of at least a 50-year water supply under the sand of Desert Center.

It was in February, 1952, when Walter Palladine, superintendent of the huge DiGiorgio Farms of Kern County, and his brother, Ben, an Imperial County farmer, chanced to drive around the area on their way back from a fishing trip at the Colorado River. At that time the land was held by the government.

The Palladines sampled the soil and then offered to buy a few sections from the government. But their requests were refused; the government said there was no water for irrigation.

The brothers contacted Arthur F. Peterson, a Bakersfield geologist - hydrologist, who made a sedimentation survey and declared that in his opinion there was plenty of water underground. The Palladines then obtained a permit to drill a test well.

The test proved that there was ample water for irrigation and the government, convinced, released 11,000 acres for desert entry. This meant that homesteaders who obtained the land for as little as $3 an acre had to produce a profitable crop within three years or lose their investments.

The Palladines began to improve the land on which the test well was sunk. Peterson obtained another portion. Others picked up what was available.

By 1957 the first crops were growing. Today nearly a third of the available desert land is being improved. By the end of the year it will be half. Within three years virtually all of the Desert Center Valley's dry sand is expected to be supplanted by marketable crops.

The homesteaders are experimenting with nearly anything that will grow to find the varieties most suitable to the climate, the soil and the water.

Today the population of Desert Center area is less than 100. By 1970, according to a projection for Riverside County made earlier this year by Stanford University, the population of this valley will grow to more than 10,000.

People, it appears, are expandable; land is not.

Boat Wrecks Claim 17 In Past 3 Months

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Boating accidents resulted in the death of 17 Californians and injury to 71 others in the first three months since the state's new boating law became effective.

The State Division of Small Craft Harbors said a total of 118 accidents were reported between April 1 and July 1. A total of 93 resulted in more than $100 property damage.

Causes of the accidents include: Operator error, 28; inexperience, 19; excessive speed, 15; weather, 12; speed which throws a heavy wake, 10; hazardous waterways, 8; machinery failure, 6; equipment failure, 4; undetermined, 38.

Curiously enough, the more experienced operators had more accidents. Lachlane M. Richards, chief of the Division of Small Craft Harbors, said the operators at fault had between 100 and 500 hours experience.

City Gets Money For Parking Area

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce voted Wednesday to give Mill Valley $109 for further improvement and beautification of the Miller Avenue parking areas.

Secretary-Manager Granville L. Beedle said the chamber also, through its president Donald Chapman, is looking for photographs of Mill Valley to be sent to television station KQED. The photographs were requested to be shown during station breaks.

Beedle said that it will be approximately two more weeks before work is completed so that the chamber can move into its office in the Greyhound Bus Depot building.

Remodeling of the Ross Post Office began today so that a new section of post office boxes can be installed, announced Postmaster John Malarin.

The number of boxes will be increased from 685 to 740, he said. Mail in Ross is delivered to the boxes, not to homes.

Remodeling will be done by Richard Zoellner, Ross contractor, who owns the post office building. It is scheduled for completion early next week.

Music Chest To Give Five $200 Grants

Five $200 scholarships will be awarded this year by the Marin Music Chest, according to Mrs. Wallace Scott, Music Chest president.

"We are very happy to announce a $200 scholarship has been given the Music Chest by the First National Bank of San Rafael," said Mrs. Scott. The fifth scholarship was given by Mrs. Raul Periera of Sausalito in memory of her late husband, Raul, noted violinist and music teacher, and will be called the "Raul Periera Violin Scholarship."

Auditions will be held sometime in August. Music students resident in Marin County, who have studied at least two years, and who are between 14 and 19 years of age, are eligible to audition. Blanks are obtainable by writing Marin Music Chest, Box 468, Ross, before Aug. 10.

Taxable Sales Rise 11% In Fiscal Year

Taxable sales in Marin County increased nearly 11 per cent last fiscal year over the 1958-59 fiscal year, it was disclosed today by the California Board of Equalization.

The state distributed $1,627,073 to county and city governments in Marin for the fiscal year ended June 30. The total the previous 12 months was $1,469,601.

Most Marin communities showed an increase in sales tax revenues. Largest increase, 46 per cent, was in Corte Madera, location of the Corte Madera Shopping Center. Two communities—Ross and San Anselmo—saw sales tax revenues drop by 9 per cent last year.

A one-cent local tax is collected at the same time as the three-cent state sales tax, and redistributed to counties and cities.

Totals for 1959-60 are given below with the 1958-59 totals in parentheses:

Marin County unincorporated areas, $365,277 ($338,448); Belvedere, $6,946 ($6,196); Corte Madera, $66,812 ($45,724); Fairfax, $43,515 ($35,417); Larkspur, $45,984 ($41,571); Mill Valley, $146,452 ($126,300); Ross, $2,601 ($2,877); San Anselmo, $76,364 ($84,198); San Rafael, $772,401 ($704,089); Sausalito, $100,721 ($84,781).

Red Cross Sets Swim Signups

Registrations for the second session of Marin's "learn to swim" program will be held at 8:30 a.m. Monday at Tamalpais High School, Sir Francis Drake High School and the Red Cross chapter house at 712 Fifth Avenue in San Rafael.

During each two-week session, swimming classes are offered free to Marin youngsters Tuesday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon. Children may register for an additional session if space is available.

The program is sponsored by the Red Cross, Tamalpais Union School District and the San Rafael Recreation and Parks Department.

State To Display Maps Of Changes For Highway 1

Two displays of maps showing proposed Marin County changes in the Shoreline Highway are planned by the California Division of Highways.

The first is scheduled for next Tuesday at the Tamalpais Valley School at the end of Bell Lane in Tamalpais Valley. The second will be next Thursday at the Stinson Beach Community Center.

Each display will be open from 2 to 9 p.m. with state representatives present to answer questions and explain possible road changes between the intersection with Highway 101 in southern Marin and Olema.

A public meeting has been scheduled for 2 p.m. Aug. 4 in the multi-purpose room of the Tamalpais Valley School for presentation of results of studies for improvement of the highway.
